Monroney Suggests Ike Devote Full Time To Nation's Defense

Pilgrims Flock Into Holy Land; 6,000 Expected

BETHLEHEM, Dec. 22 (P)—With Christmas Eve only two days away, the Holy Land had reason to rejoice today.

After a lean year when Middle East war scares frightened pilgrims away, the Holy Land once again is watching them flock back for the Christmas season.

Tourist officials said nearly 6,000 tourists are expected—about one-fourth of them Americans.

Hotels are beginning to fill. Officials said not a room is to be had in hotels in nearby Jerusalem, Jericho, Ramallah and Nablus. Last Christmas a mere handful of pilgrims showed up.

To the Holy Land, the pilgrim trad. provides a good share of the population with a livelihood.

The Holy Land had other reasons to rejoice.

The narrow no-man's land between Jordan and its bitter enemy, Israel, is quieter now than in many years.

King Hussein of Jordan has lifted the night curfew from the Holy Land for the Christmas festivities.

The King also has given government departments in the Holy Land a three-day holiday. Although Jordan is primarily a Moslem country, many Christian Arabs live in the Holy Land.

Preparations for the colorful Christmas feast are nearing completion in Bethlehem's Church of the Nativity. Christmas carols are ringing out over Manger Square, the small cobble-paved space in front of the 1,500-year-old church. It is in this church, where the birth of Jesus in the stable will be re-enacted.

There is rejoicing in some Arab homes too. About 1,300 Christian Arabs living in Israel again will cross no-man's land in to Jordan through the Mandelbaum Gate on the road to Bethlehem. They will be allowed to cross over the day before Christmas and remain for 48 hours.

British Plan H-Bomb Test

LONDON, Monday, Dec. 23 (P)—The Daily Express said today Britain plans to stage "a new and giant H-bomb explosion" at Christmas Island in the Central Pacific probably in February.

The Express said a hydrogen device will be dropped from a bomber off the southern tip of the island itself. In the past, British H-bombs have been test-fired in the open sea hundreds of miles from Christmas Island.

The story by science writer Champman Pincher said the projected new test is part of a government effort to insure that Britain is independent in H-bomb rocket warheads before American rockets are delivered to this country next year.

"If the new tests is successful," Pincher wrote, "the government will be able to equip the American Thor and Jupiter rockets with British-made warheads. This will break the political control over the rockets which the Americans insist on maintaining so long as they have to provide the warheads."

Fire Sweeps Hospital

DUNCAN, Okla., Dec. 22 (P)—Fire of unknown origin today virtually destroyed Duncan's largest hospital but some 30 occupants of the building escaped injury.

Only the outer walls of the U-shaped, one-story, brick building housing Lindsey Hospital remained standing after the fire. Owners of the hospital, Dr. E. H. Lindsey and his brother Dr. E. H. Lindsey, estimated the loss at $200,000.

Body Of UAW Prober Found In Mich. Lake

Death Of Missing Ralph Winstead Listed Accidental

ST. CLAIR SHORES, Mich., Dec. 22 (P)—The body of Ralph Winstead, missing chief investigator for the United Auto Workers Union, was found floating in Lake St. Clair today.

The 64-year-old Winstead vanished Dec. 15.

At the time of his disappearance last week from his home in the Detroit suburb of St. Clair Shores, Winstead was scheduled to testify in a 4½-million-dollar damage suit against the UAW and Detroit and state police.

Dr. Raymond G. Markle, Macomb County coroner, said a post mortem indicated Winstead drowned. Markle listed the death as accidental.

Some UAW officials had expressed fear of foul play.

Woman Spots Body

The body was spotted 40 feet from shore by a woman whose house overlooks the lake. The woman, Mrs. Ted Stensen called police and a dragging team working nearby picked up the body.

St. Clair Shores Police Sgt. Daniel Morrill said the body showed no signs of violence. It was clothed in a jacket and pants matching the description of garments Winstead was wearing when he disappeared.

Sgt. Morrill said an official of the UAW identified the body. The union declined immediate comment on the case.

Winstead, an investigator for the UAW since 1949, was scheduled to testify last Monday in Carl Renda's damage suit against the union and Detroit and state police. Renda's suit charges malicious prosecution in his arrest in 1954 in connection with the 1948 shotgun wounding of UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

Confession Called Hoax

Winstead took part in the investigation of the attempted assassination of Reuther when he joined the UAW.

Donald Ritchie of Windsor, Ont., accused Renda and three others in a so-called confession. After collecting the $5,000 reward offered by the UAW for information on the shooting, Ritchie slipped out of protective police custody and fled to Canada. There he said his statement was a hoax to collect the reward money. He has successfully fought extradition.

Former Boxer Shot To Death

BOSTON, Dec. 22 (INS)—Tommy Sullivan, one of Boston's most colorful postwar boxers, was shot to death tonight near his South Boston home by a gunman who emptied the contents of a pistol into his body from an automobile.

The 38-year-old Sullivan and Al "Red" Priest set a Boston Garden box office record in the late forties which stood for several years.

Sullivan was not married and lived with his widowed mother. He quit the ring while still a big box office attraction in Boston where he did almost all his professional fighting.

He was a light heavyweight and was known as the modern "Boston strong boy," after his father's first cousin, the original John L. Sullivan, heavyweight champion during the gay nineties.

Senator Proposes Nixon Take Over Routine Chores

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (P)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) proposed today that President Eisenhower go on a full-time basis as commander in chief and assign presidential "house-keeping chores" to Vice President Nixon.

Monroney, who has joined other Democrats in criticizing what they contend is the administration's failure to react vigorously to Russian missile and satellite advances, said he thinks that only by personal direction can Eisenhower solve the present critical defense problem.

"The direction and coordination for this program has to come from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue—the White House," Monroney said. "The President ought to take over as commander in chief on a full-time basis."

Sen. Kuchel Disagrees

"He can turn over the house-keeping chores to Vice President Nixon. He can let Nixon work on domestic problems and take care of the ceremonial duties while he devotes his full efforts to straightening out the confusion in the Pentagon and getting missile production going."

However, Sen. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said in a separate interview he regards the Monroney proposal as unconstitutional and unworkable. He said the people elect the president as the head of the executive branch, expecting him to accept the final responsibility for all executive decisions.

Impractical, Kuchel Says

"From a practical standpoint," Kuchel said, "I don't see how you could separate foreign and defense policies from domestic matters. Certainly defense expenditures are intimately related to all other expenditures and one man must make the decision on all of them."

Monroney, who has not been classed as one of Nixon's admirers, said he thinks the vice president could move in to take over many of the President's routine duties merely by executive direction and without changing any laws.

Cardinal Arrives In Japan Aboard Crippled Airliner

TOKYO, Dec. 22 (P)—Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York arrived today aboard a crippled airliner for his seventh annual Christmas visit to U. S. soldiers in the Far East.

One engine quit and was feathered and the pilot alerted the airport. Six Japanese fire engines were rushed up, but the big four-engine Northwest airliner landed without difficulty.

"The engine failed about three hours away from Japan," the cardinal told reporters. "There was no excitement. We were just slowed somewhat."

Cardinal Spellman, 68, was greeted by about 100 U. S. servicemen, their families and high-ranking Catholics in Tokyo.

The military vicar of the U. S. armed forces will spend two weeks visiting servicemen in Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Formosa and the Philippines before going on around the world.

Disillusioned Todd Plans "Do-It-Yourself" Party

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22 (P)—Mike Todd, a man who profits by his mistakes, is staging a do-it-yourself party for the first anniversary of the Hollywood opening of "that picture."

Just a year ago today "Around the World in 80 Days" opened at the Carthy Circle Theater with one of Hollywood's most memorable premieres and parties.

Frankly, the film colony expected the fabulous Todd to hire the Rose Bowl for the anniversary celebration, since Hollywood usually tops New York on parties. Last Oct. 17, Todd staged a similar party in Madison Square Garden—a party that has disillusioned him.

"Liz and I found that 18,000 people, plus 30,000 crashers are too many to handle comfortably for a party," he explained in a classic understatement.

That's why uncounted numbers of Hollywoodites today will receive do-it-yourself party kits for private celebrations in their homes. The kits have hams, caviar, six bottles of champagne, plum puddings, cakes and even a long-playing album by a 100-piece orchestra. The music? It's not "Jail House Rock."

Todd also advises guests to slip a $10 bill to their domestic help when uncorking the champagne.

He said this would help set the mood of the Madison Square Garden affair where some waiters sold the free champagne for $10 a bottle. And that's one reason Todd is disillusioned.

The Madison Square party gave out fabulous prizes and so will the do-it-yourself kit. The kit includes a hat with a number in it. Guests are advised to draw the number out and if it corresponds with the number on a gift—also included in the kit—keep it. That's the door prize.

The grand prize is an authentic ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes. Potential value: $250,000.

28 Die As Two Ships Sink

"Happiest Birthday"
Mrs. Julia Andate, Fresno, Calif., recently celebrated her 108th birthday. After a story appeared in a Fresno newspaper saying she expected to be alone on her birthday, she was deluged with hundreds of cards and letters, including one from President Eisenhower. She also received six cakes, candy and scores of gifts.

Gasoline Tank Cars Set Afire In Rail Wreck

OZARK, Ala., Dec. 22 (P)—About 20 cars of an Atlantic Coast Line freight train derailed here today and several tank cars loaded with gasoline burst into flame.

At least three persons riding the freight were injured, but an ambulance driver said one victim who was hurt only slightly refused to go to a hospital and chose instead to help fight the flames. His name was not learned.

The fire spread to a wooded area and state forest rangers were called out to help prevent spread of the flames among the trees.

Two of the injured were taken to the Dale County Hospital at Ozark. They were identified as William Hanks of Mount Airy, N.C., and John A. Williams of Tuscaloosa, Ala. A mangled driver A. K. Holman said Hanks lost both legs and Williams suffered severe burns.

Holman said about 20 freight cars left the tracks inside the Ozark City limits but that he could not tell exactly how many were on fire "because they were piled up so bad."

Besides the tank cars, the ambulance driver said there were several refrigeration cars in the train containing highly volatile ammonia.

The fire-fighting efforts were hampered by the fact that the closest water connection was half a mile away. Crash trucks from the Army aviation center at nearby Ft. Rucker joined in combating the gasoline-fueled flames.

The wreck caused a bad traffic jam on heavily-traveled U.S. Highway 231 which runs through the heart of the city toward Florida. There was no immediate explanation for the wreck.

Ozark is in southeast Alabama, about 80 miles southeast of Montgomery.

Four Poles Sail Tiny Vessel To Freedom

ROENNE, Bornholm, Dec. 22 (P)—With a Christmas tree on deck, four Poles sailed a tiny fishing vessel to this rocky Danish island in the Baltic today and asked for asylum.

The four were the 42-year old skipper, his wife, 37, a son 16, and another fisherman. 24. They told port authorities they could not stand conditions in Poland.

After elaborate preparations, they slipped out of the port of Kolbert during the night and set course for Bornholm.

"We brought our Christmas tree with us to be sure that we could celebrate as usual," the skipper said.

British Ship Attacked

LONDON, Dec. 22 (P)—Peiping radio said tonight a British freighter bound for Communist China was attacked at noon today by four Nationalist planes off the East China coast.

Antiaircraft guns on the Chinese mainland drove off the attackers, hitting one plane, Peiping said.

Preparations For Vanguard Test Speeded

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 22 (P)—The stand from which the Vanguard satellite will be launched at this government missile test center was a beehive of activity today.

A crane atop the Vanguard launching tower was moved around to a new position. After dark the tower itself again was brightly lit. But a launching appeared at least some days away.

The crane apparently is used to place sections of the three-stage Vanguard rocket in position, within the launching tower, for testing and for assembly. Until the past weekend it has remained stationary.

The Navy has been ordered to launch a Vanguard satellite as soon as possible.

British Assail "Neo-Pacifism"

LONDON, Dec. 22 (P)—Two influential Sunday newspapers today attacked the "neo-pacifism" of those who want to relax the nuclear defense preparations of NATO.

The Conservative Sunday Times and the independent Observer rejected the view of Aneurin Bevan, Socialist spokesman for foreign affairs, who criticized the decisions of the NATO conference in Paris last week. He urged talks with the Russians and an end to patrols of U. S. bombers over Britain with H-bombs aboard.

The Sunday Times referred to "shameful half-pacifism, or half-neutralism," which it claimed has afflicted the Labor party in Britain and "too many people in Europe."

It accused Bevan of hiding this neutralist trend under an attack on particular military policies such as the U. S. bombers in Britain.

"The main issue is whether NATO is to be a genuine instrument to express the pledge that an attack on any of its members will be met by the whole forces of them all."

Ike, Mamie Attend Christmas Services

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (P)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower attended Christmas Sunday services today at National Presbyterian church.

They heard the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, preach on "God at the Center of Man's Life." Dr. Elson said that in this day of space exploration man is still in need of a power beyond man himself.

"We need Christmas to light up the central realities of our existence," he said.

The President, who is spending Christmas at the White House, will join Secretary of State Dulles in making a report to the people tomorrow night on last week's NATO conference in Paris.

The report will be made over all major radio - television networks starting at 8:30 p.m. EST.

Harriman Raps Dulles For Not Preparing Ike

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (P)—Gov. Averell Harriman said today that Secretary of State Dulles should have helped President Eisenhower bring to last week's NATO conference "a great new concept for peace."

New York's Democratic governor said he thought Dulles had not fully prepared the President for the Paris meeting. He termed this "unfortunate and unfair."

Harriman, a former ambassador to Russia during part of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, said Eisenhower had not had enough preparation on the question of military defenses for the meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations. But he praised the President's "courage and ability in pulling the NATO conference together."

The President, he said, "is a great salesman of our American ideals."

Harriman spoke on WABC-TV's "College News Conference."

He said he agreed with Vice President Nixon and Democratic leaders that the Gaither Report on the nation's defense status should be made public wherever security rules permit. This, he said, would be preferable to having "such an important report leak out."

The Gaither document reportedly says the country is in the gravest danger in its history and is running the risk of becoming a secondary power unless it makes a massive effort to catch up with Russian advances in the weapons field.

Liner's Last Voyage

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Dec. 22 (P)—The British liner Scythia arrived from New York today, ending her last voyage after 36 years of Atlantic crossings.

The 19,330-ton Cunard Line vessel made its maiden voyage from Liverpool to New York in 1921. The owners plan to sell her for scrap.

Mansfield Urges NATO Science Program Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (P)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) today urged the administration to put "steam behind a scientific education program" included in the NATO conference recommendations.

Mansfield, assistant Senate Democratic leader, and other Democrats have been urging that this country and its allies find some way to match Soviet Russia's increasing output on trained scientists, engineers and technicians.

The senator said the NATO program was shaped largely by Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), a member of the Senate Armed Services and Senate - House Atomic Energy committees. Jackson headed a committee on scientific and technical personnel at the NATO parliamentary conference in Paris last month.

Vessel Lost Going To Aid Of Freighter

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 22 (P)—Two freighters sank today in a howling North Sea storm. All 28 crewmen aboard one ship were swallowed by raging seas within sight of a rescue liner.

Disaster overwhelmed the Scottish freighter Narva as it steamed to the aid of the second stricken ship, the small British freighter Boswell. The Boswell sank but its 14-man crew was saved.

The Norwegian passenger liner Leda reported she had the Narva in sight shortly after picking up her signal that she was in trouble 120 miles southwest of Stavanger, Norway.

The Leda's first mate said by ship-to-shore telephone the Narva disappeared as a lifeboat from the liner fought toward the doomed ship through towering waves.

"It is strange that she should go down so fast," the Leda mate said.

Liner Picks Up SOS

The 1,991-ton Narva was sailing from Sweden to Aberdeen, Scotland, with a cargo of pulp when she ran into the southwesterly gale.

The 6,670-ton Leda, carrying 469 passengers to Norway, picked up her distress call at 2:30 a.m., turned about and sped toward the crippled freighter.

"When we sighted the Narva, she had a strong port list and the foreship was under water most of the time," the Leda's mate said. "We launched a lifeboat with two mates and six seamen, but violent seas and the pitch dark made it very hard even to keep the freighter in sight."

"We think she sank at 4:40 a.m. when the lifeboat lost sight of her and she vanished from our radar screen."

No Sign Of Survivors

The lifeboat stayed out 35 minutes after that but could locate no sign of survivors.

The Leda stayed at the scene until morning when an air and sea search for the Narva crewmen began.

The 865-ton Boswell was about 60 miles from the Narva when she developed a list and put out her distress call. She sank with a load of coal for Norway. The crewmen abandoned her and were picked up by other ships standing by.

Ships and planes searching the area of the Narva sinking reported sighting a capsized lifeboat, two buoys with flares still blazing and scattered bits of wreckage.

Cleanup Group Makes A Point In Negative Way

DETROIT, Dec. 22 (P)—The Keep Detroit Beautiful Committee was trying to make a point. And it did, in a way.

For an hour one sunny morning last week the committee left a milk carton standing as obvious litter on the sidewalk at a busy downtown intersection. Inside was a $10 bill, designed as a reward for any civic-minded citizen who would pick up the carton and put it in a trash basket.

Members of the committee lurked nearby and counted 923 persons passing by. Passerby No. 924 gave the carton a kick and it bounded into the street. A member of the committee gave chase, recovered the city's $10 bill, and the committee members went home discouraged but wiser.

Syria Accuses Israel

DAMASCUS, Dec. 22 (P)—Syria charged a number of Israeli troops crossed the truce line in the demilitarized zone today and opened fire on a Syrian post.

Pontiff Urges Peace, Warns Against USSR

Leaders Of World Advised Not To Let Pride Mislead Them

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 22 (P)—Pope Pius XII, in a Christmas message to the world, today urged an end to an armaments race "endangering the fate of the human family and the earth itself."

The 81-year-old spiritual head of the Roman Catholic Church spoke over the Vatican's powerful new radio station on a hookup with networks of a score of nations. It was probably the most widely broadcast message in history.

In a firm, clear voice he called on Christian men not to be afraid. In an apparent reference to the Soviet Sputniks, he counseled them not to be misled "by records, often of very short duration."

As he did in his Christmas address last year, the Pope affirmed man's right for self-defense in calling on the rulers of men not to be misled by pride in a race for armaments leadership.

"Signs Of Pride"

He put it this way: "To a person pondering and forming a judgment on the actual state of affairs—and always allowing for the right of self-defense—the present day competition between nations in demonstrating their individual progress in war equipment assuredly offers new 'signs in the skies,' but even more signs of pride, that pride which produces on earth wide differences between souls, nourishes hatreds, prepares the way for conflict."

The Pope urged that all possible efforts be made for peace, but he clearly warned against Soviet Russia.

He said: "Let those who observe today's competition, therefore, know how to reduce the facts to their true proportions, and, while not rejecting approaches aiming at peace agreements which are always desirable, let them not permit themselves to be misled by records, often of very short duration, nor to too much influenced by fears skillfully evoked to win the interest and support of others who may be glad to be connected with a class of men among whom the 'homo faber'—the foundry man—takes precedence over the 'homo sapiens'—the thinking man."

NATO's Efforts Endorsed

"May the advantage, then, go to the Christian man who, making use of the liberty of spirit . . . recovers in the objective consideration of events that peace and stability of soul which has its source in the Divine Spirit."

The pontiff urged men to dedicate themselves to peace and by implication supported the efforts of the United Nations and NATO. "The divine law of harmony," he said, "strictly imposes on all rulers of nations the obligation to prevent war by means of suitable international organizations, to reduce armaments under a system of effective inspection, to deter whoever should aim at disturbing the peace with the most fully guaranteed mutual dependence between the nations which sincerely desire it."

Red Delegates Flown To Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 22 (P)—Five Communist countries' delegates to the Asian - African conference opening Thursday arrived today in a Russian TU104 jet airliner.

They were cheered at Cairo airport by about 5,000 students, school girls and workers.

The delegations are from the Soviet Union, Outer Mongolia, North Viet Nam, North Korea and Red China. There were 70 members and secretaries.

The Russian 27-man delegation was led by S. R. Rashidov, vice president of the Supreme Soviet Presidium of the Uzbek Supreme Soviet.

The Chinese 25-man delegation was led by Ku Mo-jo, president of Red China's Academy of Sciences. Students and workers carried banners reading "Welcome guests of peace, welcome to Egypt men of peace." The crowd shouted, "All peoples are against war, long live peace, long live Asian-African solidarity."

The Communist delegates are the first large group to arrive here to attend the week-long conference. Delegates from 44 countries are expected to attend. The conference will discuss imperialism and national independence, the Algerian question, racial discrimination and the prevention of testing and use of nuclear weapons.

Norstad Expects 6 To 10 NATO Missile Squadrons

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of Allied Forces in Europe, said today he expects 6 to 10 squadrons of 15 missiles each to be placed in NATO countries.

He said the bases should be ready in a year to 18 months and the missiles and equipment will cost about 30 to 40 million dollars per squadron.

Norstad was interviewed on NABC's "Meet the Press" program, filmed previously in the Palais de Chaillot in Paris, where the heads of NATO governments met last week. The United States offered at the meeting to make missiles available to other NATO countries.

Norstad, whose job is to implement the decisions of the Paris conference, did not pinpoint the locations of the new bases. He said he foresaw no difficulty, however, in other nations accepting the bases.

"In some countries, for many reasons, it may be more difficult to do this than in other countries," he said, "but I am satisfied that the military requirement can and will be met under the formula agreed on by the 15 heads of government."

Norstad said it is not necessary from a military standpoint that each government have the missiles.

"As a matter of fact, it isn't even desirable," he said. "It is necessary only that relatively few countries should have them. The range of these missiles permit their distribution at any one of many, many places."

Norstad emphasized that plans for the bases are only the first phase of a long-range program for expanded defenses in Europe.

Assets Boosted By Consumers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—Consumers have been adding to their assets and financial resources in 1957 at the near-record rate of 19½ billion dollars a year, the Commerce Department reported today.

Additions to all forms of liquid assets—cash, bank holdings, securities and insurance—amounted to 26½ billion dollars in annual rate, up 3 billions from 1956 and a new record.

Substantial gains in the accumulation of bank savings and corporation securities were shown. Each was at an annual rate of more than 11 billion dollars, compared with 9 billion in 1956. Savings invested in private insurance also rose, but holdings of savings bonds went down.

Individuals showed a net gain of 13 billions in their stock of houses, facilities for small business and other physical assets, the department said.

This resulted from an investment rate of 28 billion dollars annually in such assets, less 15 billion dollars in depreciation.

Crash Injuries Fatal To Veteran Reporter

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 22 (AP)—Ray Sprigle, 70, Pulitzer prize-winning reporter of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, died today about eight hours after he was injured in an auto crash.

The veteran reporter was admitted to Allegheny General Hospital last night for treatment after a taxicab in which he was riding and a car collided in downtown Pittsburgh.

An autopsy disclosed Sprigle sustained a crushed chest and a skull fracture.

Sprigle won a Pulitzer Prize in 1938 for an article naming Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black as a member of the Ku Klux Klan. During his long and colorful career, Sprigle had many other reportorial scoops to his credit.

Eight Quizzed In Theft Of Gems From Minister

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22 (AP)—Police questioned eight persons today in the theft of $15,000 in jewels and personal items from a Maryland Baptist minister, but said the investigation has turned up no leads.

The Rev. Paul J. Maddox of Bethesda told police the items were stolen yesterday from the unlocked trunk of his auto parked in a motor court here.

The jewelry belonged to the Rev. and Mrs. Maddox. They were visiting their daughter, Mrs. George W. Grady, whose husband is a student at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

Mrs. Grady said her father worked for evangelist Billy Graham and planned to fly to Latin America after Christmas to set up meetings for Graham in the Caribbean area and Mexico.

Officers said Mrs. Maddox valued the jewels at more than $13,000. Included among personal effects stolen were four air line tickets valued at $1,800.

43rd Crash In Two Years At Intersection

GREENCASTLE, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP)—Police Chief Robert Shelly said the collision of a car and a Greyhound bus today was the 43rd accident in less than two years at the intersection of U.S. 11 and Pa. 16.

No one was seriously hurt. The accident happened on the U.S. 11 by-pass that skirts the western edge of town. Greencastle is 11 miles south of Chambersburg near the Maryland line.

Train Hits Truck, Killing Mother, Three Children

SALINAS, Calif., Dec. 22 (AP)—A mother and her three children returning from church were killed at a railroad crossing near their home today when their pickup truck was hit by a holiday mail and express train and dragged 750 feet.

The dead: Mrs. Dortha Jean Martella, 42, and daughters Barbara, 15, Judy, 12, and Sally, 10.

Authorities said Elmer Martella, the husband and father, was in San Francisco—110 miles north of here—to attend the National Football League's Western Division playoff game between the San Francisco 49ers and the Detroit Lions.

Syria Approves Yost As U. S. Ambassador

DAMASCUS, Syria, Dec. 22 (AP)—Reliable sources said today Syria has approved the tentative nomination of Charles W. Yost as the new U. S. ambassador to Damascus.

They said a note of approval was delivered to the U. S. Embassy by Assad Elkhani, secretary general of the Syrian Foreign Ministry.

(Diplomatic sources in Washington reported Thursday that President Eisenhower had chosen an ambassador to Syria and that the Syrians had accepted him. The nominee was not named in Washington.)

(Yost, 50, is a former U. S. ambassador to Laos and a career diplomat.)

The new ambassador will succeed James R. Moore Jr., who has represented the United States in Syria for more than five years.

Revision Of Md. Legal Insanity Law Suggested

BALTIMORE, Dec. 22 (AP)—A member of the House of Delegates from Baltimore wants the General Assembly to create a special commission for studying revision of Maryland's law on legal insanity.

Del. Culotta (R-Balto 3rd) said he would introduce a resolution calling for creation of the commission of psychiatrists, jurists, medical diagnosticians and civic leaders.

Culotta said the commission would "make a study and report to the legislature whether our legal tests of sanity are archaic and outmoded. . . in view of the recognized advances in the fields of psychiatry, neurology and the recognized studies of known patterns of human behavior."

"The ultimate objective of human justice," he said, "should not be like the ironclad law of the ancient Medes and Persians."

Del. Culotta said the McNaughton rule, followed in Maryland since 1888, recognized no degree of mental disturbance and may be outmoded in the light of modern psychiatry and other sciences.

Three judges in Baltimore County Circuit Court ruled Robert Jett Van Horn legally sane under the McNaughton rule Dec. 18 in convicting him of manslaughter in the slaying of his wife.

Ailing Mindszenty Aide To Attend Trial

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 22 (AP)—Josef Cardinal Mindszenty's 65-year-old secretary is expected to get out of his sick bed tomorrow to attend his Communist court trial. It has been going on for two weeks.

Msgr. Egon Turcsanyi, 15 young priests and Lt. Col. Pal Liezkowski are accused of "counter-revolutionary activity" growing out of the anti-Russian revolt last year that freed the Roman Catholic cardinal from house arrest. Maj. Antal Palinkas-Pallavicini, who led the rescue, already has been executed.

The young priests, charged mainly with distributing leaflets and a papal letter, are expected to get off lightly. Communist Judge Mathild Toth has called them "political illiterates." But Msgr. Turcsanyi—whom she has branded a "ranking criminal"—and the army officer are expected to be dealt with more harshly.

These trials seem to be the government's way of venting its ire against Mindszenty. Since the revolt, the cardinal has been in the U.S. legation in Budapest. So long as he stays in there, he cannot be arrested. But Hungary's Communist regime has indicated he will be taken into custody once he

State Teachers College Closes For Holidays

Socials Highlight Christmas Activity

FROSTBURG — With the closing of college at Frostburg State Teachers College, also came an end to one of the busiest social periods in the school year as practically every campus organization had some sort of an observance of Christmas.

Phi Omicron Delta Sorority held their annual party for about 30 children from Hill Street School. Each girl in the sorority served as a "big sister" to one of the students. The affair was held in the dining room of Frost Hall.

Members of the Art Club, under the direction of William Stewart, made jewelry for Christmas gifts. They fashioned articles from silver and copper.

The FTA Lillian C. Compton Chapter, held a Christmas party in the recreation room of Simpson Hall. Singing and dancing featured the evenings entertainment. James Hosack is faculty advisor.

Little Theatre held their Christmas party in Compton Hall Auditorium with several new members initiated. They presented a program for the older members of the group. The Alpha Psi Omega Fraternity sponsored a theatre party and attended the play given by the Algonquin Players in Cumberland. Both groups are under the direction of Dorothy Stone White.

The French and Spanish Club held their annual Noel tea at which time the traditional "Pina-ta" popular among the peoples of France, Spain and Mexico, was broken showering gifts for those present. Miss Irene Kirby is faculty advisor to the two groups.

The Student Christian Association remembered the needy and sponsored a toy and food collection with the items being divided among needy families of the locality. The Canterbury Club attended a conference at Claggett Center, Buckeystown. Four members of the Newman Club attended a conference at the Middle Atlantic Seminar at Hershey, Pa. All three religious groups joined together for a caroling party on December 15.

The final affair before returning to their homes for the two-week vacation was the all-college dance held at Clary Club. This officially closed the holiday festivities at the college.

5-Year-Old Boy Shoots Neighbor

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Dec. 22 — "Stop the noise or Santa Claus won't be coming to see you," Mrs. Meyers called to the five-year-old youngster next door. Minutes later she was on her way to a hospital.

The 68-year-old woman had heard a couple of shots as she went about her household chores, but they sounded like a toy cap pistol. She was sure of it when she went to her kitchen and saw a neighbor child in the window of his home.

That's when she called to him. Mrs. Meyers was taken to the hospital with a 22 caliber rifle wound in the upper leg. Doctors said the leg was broken.

Prosecutor James T. Dailey Jr. said the youngster took the rifle from his father's gun case, found ammunition elsewhere in the house and loaded the gun himself. He wasn't certain what action would be taken.

Carlos Methodists Prepare Program

CARLOS — The Carlos Methodist Church will hold its Christmas services tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

A dialogue "It Makes a Difference" will be presented by Jimmy Yates and Harold Winters. "The Story of Light" will be given by the Junior Department, with Linda Hutcheson as the narrator. Others taking part are Carol Ann Filer, Sharon Speir, Harold Winters, Jerry Ruby and Jimmy Yates. Sharon Speir will play a piano solo "Silver Bells."

The choir will sing several Christmas songs and the Primary Department will give the recitations.

FROSTBURG — William Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Wilson, 166 Centre Street, Frostburg, is a member of a class of approximately 200 young men who participated in graduation exercises at Indiana Technical College.

A graduate of Beall High School, Mr. Wilson received his degree in Mechanical and Civil Engineering.

This is the first commencement held in Tech's new home since the college took full possession of its new location, July 1, 1957.

Mr. Wilson is president of the Student Council, the governing body of the college.

Ruritan Club At Mathias Has Installation

MATHIAS — Installation of officers of the Mathias Ruritan Club was held at the last meeting of the year in the school cafeteria. An oyster supper was served by a losing team captained by Lacy Cochran, to the members of the winning team, with Virgil Mathias as captain.

Officers were installed by Lacy Cochran, lieutenant governor. Lester See is president; Vance Mathias, vice-president; Ellwood May, secretary; Harold Delawder, treasurer, and Don Biller, director.

The new president named the following committee chairmen: Vincent Moyer, program, John Hinegardner, fellowship; Lacy Cochran, finance; Don Biller, welfare; Loring Vance, recreation; Robert Nair, youth; Ernest Shippe, agriculture; W. C. Mathias, rural church; Guy Dispanet, utilities, and Clyde Halpern, education. Arlie Stultz was named sergeant-at-arms, Robert Nair, chaplain, Arthur Moyer, song leader, and Virgil Mathias, reporter.

The club voted to send two CARE packages and to light the community Christmas tree. Christmas baskets will be distributed to the needy families of the community.

A past president's pin was presented to the retiring president, Free Shippe, by lieutenant governor Lacy Cochran. Arlie Stultz was given a membership button. Lester See and Virgil Mathias were named as delegates to the convention in New Orleans, La., in January.

McConnell Heads Moorefield Firemen

MOOREFIELD — L. L. McConnell was elected president of the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company at the annual election of officers. McConnell succeeds Senator Ralph J. Bean, who resigned after serving as president for twenty years.

FROSTBURG — William Vogtman, city clerk, announced that trash collections scheduled on Wednesday have been changed to the following Friday due to the Christmas holiday. The same schedule will apply during New Years week.

The city council voted to give all city employees a half-day off on Tuesday before Christmas. They also approved the mid-month payroll at their semi-monthly meeting.

Moose Plan Kiddie Party

FROSTBURG — Frostburg Loyal Order of Moose No. 348, will sponsor a kiddies party today from 2 to 4 p. m. at the Moose Home, West Main Street. According to A. J. Green, program committee chairman, a treat will be given to each child attending and an entertaining program will be presented. All children are welcome to attend.

Warning Issued To Shoplifters

FROSTBURG — John Malcolm, manager of the Acme Food Market, informed police that his company has changed its policy towards people apprehended in their stores for taking food or any other items without paying for them.

In the past few months, according to Police Chief Lloyd Truly, Malcolm has caught several persons taking articles from the store. They have been taken to the police station and reprimanded but, Malcolm said, shoplifting has continued and the company, which has been hesitant in the past to prosecute will go so in the future as the "shoplifting" is beginning to get out of hand.

ASC Shares Cost Of Tree Planting

BEDFORD, Pa. — According to J. R. Muma Jr., manager of the ASC here, many farmers in Bedford County have land that is so steep and hilly it is impossible to get farm machinery on it. Most of the top soil has already been washed away and grass will not grow on it, if grass does grow it is impossible to manage it. This type of land should be planted into trees. Planting trees on this land will prevent erosion and provide a good investment for future years.

This year farmers may receive a maximum federal cost-share through the ACP of $24 an acre if the cost of the trees and planting is borne by the farmer and $16 an acre if only the cost of planting is borne by the farmer. Those interested in this most important conservation practice may obtain additional information and technical assistance from the ASC office in Bedford.

Party Today

LONACONING — Intermediate and Junior departments will hold their Christmas party today. A White Gift service will be held at 7:30 p. m., followed by a movie for the Junior department and the "Carol Sing" for the Intermediates.

New Gas Line Being Planned In Romney Area

ROMNEY — A Pennsylvania firm is reportedly planning to run a gas line from Hampshire County to Keyser from several wells it has drilled and capped in the nearby West Virginia area.

The firm, Anburn Oil and Gas Company, Olean, N. Y., has, according to reliable sources, drilled and capped four wells and is in the process of opening up a fifth well. The wells, it was reported, have a capacity of 4,000,000 cubic feet daily.

Hampshire County sources said the proposed new gas line would hook into the C&A Gas Company system at Keyser. However, area C&A officials said they know nothing of the plan.

R. E. Stewart, clerk of the court at Romney, said Anburn company officials had been in his office looking over abstract titles for rights-of-way but that the company had no titles entered on the record.

Three of the capped wells in Hampshire are located on the Dolan farm at Augusta, the McBride farm near Augusta on Martinsburg grade and on the Orndorff farm at Little Cacapon.

Deaths And Funerals In The Tri-State Area

Sailor Is Killed In Auto Accident

A 21-year-old sailor stationed at the Bainbridge Naval Training Center was killed instantly Saturday afternoon in a three-car collision on U. S. Route 40, four miles east of Hancock.

Victim of the crash was Ronald G. Robison, husband of Mrs. Norma Robison, of Springfield, Ill. He was traveling with his 18-year-old wife and their small child. Both the mother and child escaped injury.

Trooper Robert Kirby of the Maryland State Police, who investigated, said the accident occurred shortly after noon near the Hollow Road intersection east of Hancock.

Trooper Kirby said Robison was traveling west on the highway when his vehicle was struck headon by another car being operated by Ruby Marie Grove, 31, Warfordsburg, Pa.

The Grove vehicle was headed east on the highway, crossed the center line and smashed into the victim's car, police said.

The trooper also noted that after hitting the Robison car the Grove machine "flipped" around on the highway and rammed into another car being driven by Erick D. Boyer, 32, of RD 1, Hancock.

Police said the Grove woman and Boyer escaped without injuries.

Police said the cause of the accident was failing to keep to the right side of the highway on the part of the Grove woman.

MRS. MARY OLDT

Mrs. Mary Eleanor Oldt, 78, a former local resident, died last week in Leesburg, Fla. The widow of Rev. M. A. Oldt was born in Thornton, W. Va.

Services Tomorrow For Accident Victim

PARSONS, W. Va. — Services for Jack Hill, 45, who was killed instantly early Saturday when he crashed headon into a parked car on Route 72 in front of the Tucker County Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Greenleaf Funeral Home here.

Rev. Connie Dickens, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church, will officiate and burial will be in Parsons Cemetery.

The force of the impact was so great the 1934 sedan owned by Hill and the 1947 convertible he struck remained locked together after being towed to a local garage.

Cpl. James R. Rightmire of the Thomas Detachment of State Police investigated along with Tucker County Sheriff Jack Hockman.

They reported Hill was traveling south on Route 72. He apparently had lost control of his car as there was evidence that he had been running on the berm of the highway for some time before hitting the parked car.

The convertible had been left parked off the highway on the berm, and was facing north. It had been left there by its owner, Edward Phillips, earlier when the machine ran out of gasoline. Phillips then walked home.

This was the third fatality on Tucker County highways this year.

The victim was the son of Mrs. May Hill Jenkins, Parsons, and the late William H. Hill. He was the operator of Hill's Restaurant here.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Vivian (Cousin) Hill; two brothers, Howard C. Hill, and Joseph Hill, Parsons; one sister, Mrs. Dorothy Hatter, Tucson, Ariz., and a brother, Harold Hill, Parsons.

The body is at the Greenleaf Funeral Home.

Boy Rescued From Well To Have Normal Yuletide

MANORVILLE, N.Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—A little over seven months ago a handsome little boy named Benny Hooper got the world on his side simply by accidentally falling into a well.

It took scores of police, firemen, bulldozer operators, well-diggers and other volunteers almost 24 hours to get Benny out.

And not until the last moment did a waiting nation have any idea that the little boy they were digging to rescue would be found alive.

What is the first Christmas after such an event like to the family of a boy like Benny?

In many ways just the same as it would have been if Benny had never fallen down the well which his father was digging in their Long Island backyard.

Christmas Eve, according to custom carried out by Benny's Norwegian-born mother, the Hoopers will open their presents and have a huge smorgasbord.

Benny still believes in Santa Claus—wouldn't you in his place?—and has asked for a magic set, more cars for his electric train, and a bow and arrow.

So it will be quite a normal Christmas. But a few things will be different as a result of Benny's brush with eternity.

He has two dogs this Christmas—his old, beloved mongrel cocker, Butch, and a big police dog who is a real descendant of Rin Tin Tin.

He has several remembrances from people he never saw—cuff links from another Long Island boy, religious books from a lady in Revere, Mass., who signed herself only "Mrs. Fickett," a letter from "Santa Claus, Santa Land, Fairbanks, Alaska" saying Benny had been a "wonderful boy" this year, and many cards from all over the country.

The Hoopers have found the big difference is the number of cards they had to send—to all the people they met while Benny was being rescued.

Apparently as good as new now, although he had nightmares, sand blisters and a "sleeping" feeling in one arm for a long time after his imprisonment in the well, Benny is unperturbed by the attention.

But there's no doubt of the sincerity of his parents' Christmas wish—that everyone involved in saving Benny "will have as happy a Christmas as we have by having our boy with us."

Mrs. Wilkinson's Will Is Probated

The will of Mrs. Clara R. Wilkinson, who died November 17 at the age of 83, was probated Friday in Allegany County Orphans Court. She had lived at 343 Davidson Street.

Her three sons, Robert S. Charles N. and Norwood J. Wilkinson, all of this city, were named executors of the estate. Mrs. Wilkinson also left her estate share and share alike to her three sons. The will was dated August 6, 1944.

Also probated Friday was the will of Mrs. Charlotte Kirby Krause, who died October 13. Frank Krause, a son, and Eleanor Krause Fram, a daughter, qualified as executors of the estate. They were named chief beneficiaries.

"Jug Not - !"

"Jug not that ye be not jugged."

Ventriloquism is an ancient art, known to the Greeks, who thought that it was the work of demons.

Florida Driver Pays $250 Fine

A Key West, Fla., man paid fines on Friday totaling $250 imposed by Magistrate J. Milton Dick on two state motor vehicle law violations. The magistrate said he suspended a six-month jail sentence on condition the former Keyser man does not drive in this state for two years.

Magistrate Dick said the motorist, Ray Ludwig, was arrested early Friday morning after Trooper D. A. Tucker noticed he was driving erratically on Route 40 at Clarysville.

He said the trooper radioed to the LaVale barracks for a road block after the motorist refused to stop.

Ludwig was "boxed in" on Vocke Road after Cpl. Harry Bosley and Tfc. John F. Browning joined the chase.

New Haven Road To Cut Service

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 22 (AP)—The New Haven Register said today it has learned that the New Haven Railroad notified the Connecticut Public Utility Commission that it will cut passenger service by 30 per cent on Jan. 2.

The railroad told the PUC that a 7 per cent drop in passengers carried and a 15 per cent drop in freight loadings was the reason for curtailing service.

County Workers Get Day And Half Holiday

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners voted on Friday that all county offices under its control will close at noon Tuesday, Christmas Eve, and reopen at 9 a. m. Thursday.

Apparently, the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, which comes under the control of the judges, will remain open until the usual 4 p. m. Christmas Eve. Governor Theodore R. McKeldin has not proclaimed any additional holiday than Christmas day for state employees and the clerk's office generally follows the state holiday schedule.

The office of the Board of Education two doors from the Court House on Washington Street will be open Monday but will be closed from Tuesday on until Thursday, January 2.

Fruits Of The Paris Meeting

To determine whether the NATO conference in Paris was successful it is necessary to inquire what it set out to do. The prime objective of the meeting was to renew and strengthen the ties of the alliance to meet the new threat posed by the spectacular Soviet advances in rocketry.

There was no general agreement on how this objective was to be attained. The United States, with the balance of military power in mind, pressed hard for the establishment of intermediate range ballistic missile bases on European soil. Other Western nations felt this was putting the cart before the horse, since the United States has no such operational missiles ready to deliver to counter the Soviet threat.

They pressed instead for renewed negotiations with the Russians to find out whether there is any hope of a settlement before taking a step which will undoubtedly intensify the cold war.

What has emerged is a compromise which incorporates both points of view.

President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles have won assent to their proposal to arm NATO forces with American-made missiles and stockpile nuclear warheads in Europe for use in case of war. This victory is not as sweeping as it sounds. The missiles are not ready and many of the member nations of NATO are not ready to actually establish missile bases on their soil.

In the breathing spell before this agreement in principle will have to be translated into action they will have an opportunity to explore the other branch of the compromise.

This is an expression of desire to promote disarmament negotiations with the Russians, preferably within the framework of the UN, but at the foreign minister level if the Russians insist on this. Here Mr. Dulles, who has been dead set against renewed negotiations until the Soviet Union shows some evidence of good faith, has suffered a defeat.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Gathering Of The Clan

At the celebration of the 40th anniversary of Soviet Russia, not only was the Communist Party of Soviet Russia and its satellites present but also representatives from many other countries. Nikita Khrushchev extended "heartfelt greetings" to the comrades. I think that it might be interesting to note that as each delegate rose, it is reported that there was applause but that when the head of the Chinese Communist Party rose there was "loud and prolonged applause."

Representatives came from 61 countries and they stood by Khrushchev to a man, recognizing him as the top man of current Communism. It is important to note that they came from 61 countries; there are only 82 in the United Nations. Furthermore, among the 61 nations some are in NATO and some are regarded as our allies and the question is whether the Communist Party in those countries is powerful or a mere handout. The 36 who received special mention in order as Khrushchev read the list were:

- Red China — Mao Tse-tung;
- Albania — Enver Hoxha;
- Bulgaria — Todor Zhivkov;
- Hungary — Janos Kadar;
- Vietnam — Ho Chi Minh;
- East Germany — Walter Ulbricht;
- North Korea — Kim Il Sung;
- Mongolia — Damba;
- Poland — Wladyslaw Gomulka;
- Rumania — Chivu Stoica;
- Czechoslovakia — Antonin Novotny;
- Yugoslavia — Eduard Kardelj, (Tito sick);
- France — Maurice Thorez;
- Italy — Palmiro Togliatti;
- Austria — Johann Koplenig;
- Great Britain — Harry Pollitt;
- West Germany — Max Reimann;
- Spain — Dolores Ibarruri;
- India — Ajoy Ghosh;
- Indonesia — Sudisman;
- Japan — Yoshio Shiga;
- Canada — Tim Buk;
- Finland — Ville Pessi;
- Argentina — Victorio Codovilla;
- Mexico — Dionisio Encina;
- Sweden — Hilding Hagberg;
- Norway — Emil Loevlien;
- Australia — Lawrence Sharkey;
- Switzerland — Edgar Woog;
- Luxembourg — Dominique Urbany;
- Iceland — Einar Olgeirsson;
- Israel — Shmuel Mikunis;
- Uruguay — Rodney Arismendi;
- Morocco — Ali Yata;
- Tunisia — Mohammed el Hamel;
- Ecuador — Pedro Saad.

These party officials, some of them government officials and some of them controlling large areas of the Earth's surface, are banded together for the control of the world. In Khrushchev's speech, these delegates were not called up in alphabetical order or in relationship to power. Yet there was obviously a pattern in both the method of calling them to rise for a bow and their importance in the Communist hierarchy.

There was no delegate from the United States but it is significant that there was a delegation from Israel which Soviet Russia seeks to destroy, but none from any Asiatic Arab country, not even Syria, with which Soviet Russia is allied.

It was at this meeting that Mao Tse-tung instructed the Communist world that the center of all power is in the Kremlin. Thus, Mao fully supported Khrushchev and in effect gave warning that Red China would back Khrushchev against any opposition. This gives the current boss of the Kremlin a military ally of vast dimensions and power who possesses ample force, at not a too great distance in this world, to come to his ally's assistance.

Decline Of The Deterrent-And Of The West

PARIS
The grandiose NATO conference of chiefs of state was both caused and dominated by a single phenomenon, which may be described as "the decline of the deterrent." The conference proved, moreover, that the leaders of the West have no practical ideas as yet about halting the deterrent's decline.

This decline of the deterrent is the central feature of the new and immensely more dangerous world situation that now confronts us. So it is a good idea to try to be as precise as possible about the exact character of this widely misunderstood phenomenon.

In brief, the whole strategy of the West since the end of the second World War has rested upon the deterrent power of the terrible combination first developed in the United States — the combination of nuclear weapons plus the means of delivering those weapons to very distant targets.

The idea has been that our possession of this awe-inspiring striking power would deter the Kremlin from carrying out its aggressive and expansionist designs beyond a certain point. This was, of course, the point where the United States might be expected to be provoked into using its nuclear striking power against the Soviet Union.

Because of the confidence inspired by this idea, Western investments in conventional arms have been skimmed and insufficient at all times, even at the time when NATO was originally organized. On the whole, moreover, the great deterrent has performed its allotted task except in one major case, the Korean War invited by the American disarmament of 1949-50.

In the last five years, however, investments in the deterrent itself have also been continuously skimmed by the Eisenhower administration. The Strategic Air Command has been denied an adequate component of very long range groups, capable of hitting the Soviet Union from American bases. Worse still, missile development has been carried on with no sense of urgency whatever, with overtime on the great missile projects even forbidden to save a few pennies.

In this same period and with brilliant success, the Kremlin has pressed on with its own program to develop the combination of nuclear weapons plus means of long range delivery. In addition to a large strategic air command of its own, with a considerable very long range component, the Kremlin has therefore acquired a big stock of medium range missiles capable of rapidly destroying American overseas bases; and the Kremlin is now building a further stock of long range missiles capable of hitting targets in America itself.

The practical result of these developments has been to move to the point where the United States can't conceivably be provoked into using its nuclear striking power. The reason for this is simple. Our deterrent has virtually lost its offensive capability.

Nuclear striking power cannot be used against another nation possessing nuclear striking power unless the attacker has enough power to be confident of destroying the enemy's airbases and missile launching sites with a single massive blow. For an offensive operation, these are the targets of first priority. It is necessary to be able to destroy them in toto and in one blow. Otherwise the attacker will have to pay for his attack with the destruction of his great cities by the enemy's riposte.

This inescapable necessity, for the attacker to destroy all his enemy's airbases and missile launching sites in one massive blow, in turn requires striking power on a vast scale. Very large numbers of nuclear weapons need to be laid down with great precision on very large numbers of targets, if all the enemy airbases and launching sites are to be destroyed at once.

The Western nations no longer have nuclear striking power on this scale. The task of the Strategic Air Command has been rendered immeasurably more difficult by the need to take out Soviet missile launching sites as well as the Soviet airbases. At

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We would like to state that bipartisan politics flourisheth during Christmas week in Washington. But the lines are still drawn tighter than fiddle strings.

The Palazzo Guardia pulled a plausible gimmick asking Adlai Stevenson to become the twelfth man in the huddle.

But here it is two nights from Christmas and Adlai has no more say than an embryo in an egg.

Adlai has been given sealed orders for a cruise in the hossa-lough latitudes.

The sway of his opinion is limited to the parabola of a nod.

He has been given a free hand only for applause.

Fact is the palazzo guardia's invitation to Adlai was a neat bit of footwork on a stationary pivot.

The escalator wheezed and beep-beeped but nobody went upstairs. Merry Christmas to one and several.

Presidential Greeting Card Plug For Firm; Salk Boosters Urged

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—There's an untold story behind the Christmas card mailed out this year by President and Mrs. Eisenhower and the tremendous hoopla given it by the White House press corps.

Samples were handed out to reporters which, in itself was highly unusual. The publicity turned out to be an indirect plug for the Hallmark greeting card company, which not only made the White House Christmas cards but also thoughtfully imprinted its trademark on the reverse side.

This is almost unheard of in official circles where stationery, invitations, and greeting cards are prepared with the utmost of tea-and-cookie formality. In this case, however, it happens that Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, wife of Hallmark's president, is a close friend of Mamie Eisenhower's. She was named by Ike earlier this year to represent the United States at the inauguration of President Hector Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

Booster Shots Needed
U. S. Surgeon General Le Roy E. Burney has unofficially recommended that polio "booster" shots be given to children who completed their Salk immunizations in 1954 or 1955.

The Public Health Service has shied away from making any official statement, because there is no scientific proof that booster shots are needed. However, many doctors believe the antibodies produced in the blood stream by the Salk vaccine may level off after a few years. If that's the case, then a booster shot would be needed to restore the antibodies to a fully protective level.

Dr. Burney has let it be known that he plans to give Salk booster shots to his own family.

Missile Fences Planned

Behind the guarded gates at Cape Canaveral, Fla.—Maj. Gen. Donald Yates, commander of the missile test center, intends to erect strategically placed fences to block newsmen from photographing missile tests. He has ordered his engineers to scout the reporters' favorite lookouts and plan a series of fences that will stop "bird watching." . . .

The missile crews call off 20 to 25 missile tests each month. The majority are "scrubbed" by the manufacturers because of technical difficulties that develop during the countdown. Trouble along the 5,000-mile testing range has also caused several postponements. Frequent problem: Breaks in the submarine cable, the main communications link between the missile stations.

Pan American Airlines' big, shy Dick Mitchell, civilian chief of the missile range, refused to authorize the extra expense of stationing medics on the picket ships that monitor our missiles as they soar over the south Atlantic. A few weeks ago, a crewman developed an abscessed tooth that puffed up his face with infection until it closed both eyes. The picket ship was forced to leave the missile range and steam over 300 miles to the nearest Brazilian port for medical help. This contributed to the delay of a 5,000-mile Snark firing.

Fishing For Missiles

Promoter Lou Berger, who fishes our fallen missiles out of the ocean and hauls them back to the test center, is having income-tax difficulties. A slice of his annual $90,000 fee has been claimed by Internal Revenue. . . . Secret films of the Vanguard failure, which were supposed to be rushed to Washington, were delayed two hours in order to go through the "proper channels." Pan Am, the range contractor, refused to let its chief subcontractor, the Radio Corporation of America, deliver the films directly to the Air Force.

Col. Paul Cooper, the Air Force

contract officer, has blasted Pan Am privately for failing to work closer with RCA. He has accused the two companies of "Random" planning. . . . Four Pan Am planners took a costly, three-day trip to Green Cove Springs, Fla., to study the Navy's mothballing methods. They intend to use the knowledge to close down the missile station at St. Lucia off the Brazilian coast. But they could have walked across the street to the technical library at the test center and found all the information they needed.

Actually, Pan Am has a reasonably good record for holding down costs on the missile range. Last year, the Air Force allotted $4,500,000 to construct a new missile station. Inflation increased the estimated costs to $6,500,000 by the time construction was started. But Pan Am's chief facilities engineer, Fred Werry, cut corners and held the cost to a remarkable $3,100,000. . . . One Pan Am employee drew $600 in expense money for a trip to the missile station at Recife, near Brazil, but spent the whole bankroll before he got out of town. His boss, F. E. Bruhn, refused to fire him. Bruhn explained at staff meeting: "This man will have to be kept on as an employee, so we can get back the $600" . . . Exposed electric cables used to charge mobile commissaries at Cape Canaveral, have given more than one employee a bad jolt. One secretary was knocked ten feet.

Pan Am is so saving on its motor pool that it frequently must borrow cars from the missile manufacturers for needed transportation. . . . Pan Am has a special stamp for documents that it doesn't particularly want the Air Force to see. These documents are stamped "PAA Confidential" . . . The Navy has sighted only one unidentified sub near Cape Canaveral in the past several months. The Russians must be less curious or more careful.

The giant Atlas, wrapped in aluminum-painted canvas, was carted across country on a super-sized trailer truck. A photo crew tagged along to snap pictures of the historic trip—pictures, incidentally, which any passing motorist could have taken. Yet the Defense Department has refused to release these pictures, showing only the aluminum shroud covering the Atlas.

Propaganda

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — They didn't really need to hold a conference of the heads of the 15 NATO governments just to work out the communique that was finally issued at Paris with unanimous agreement. Everything that was decided could have been worked out through the regular diplomatic channels without any fanfare.

But fanfare is important nowadays. The big thing now is world-wide propaganda. In the six days that news flowed from the Paris meeting, the whole world got the impression of an alliance of free nations unafraid of military strength for defense, yet an alliance that is ready to discard armament the moment it becomes apparent that a dependable agreement can be reached with the other side.

This correspondent happens to have a short-wave radio set that brings in broadcasts from every part of the world. Listening every night to the voices of broadcasters in the different countries of Europe, Asia and the two Americas, and then listening also to the attempts by radio Moscow to belittle what was being done by NATO at Paris, gives a realistic feeling about the battle of the air waves.

There is no doubt that propaganda today is all-powerful. It is regrettable that Congress doesn't see it that way, and, instead, practices a niggardly policy with respect to the money needed by the "Voice of America." Its broadcasts, of course, could be improved immeasurably, but it is too bad that there are not more friends on Capitol Hill to appropriate enough money to send authoritative information around the world, especially to places not reached by the regular news services or where the news, as sent by the major press associations in the world to the local press, is ordered suppressed by the governments in power.

America derived a good deal of prestige from the NATO meeting at Paris. There were, of course, the usual attempts by the Communists to picture the allies as out of harmony with the United States. But this was to be expected, and so were the short-sighted comments by some of the political opposition parties inside a number of the free countries.

One wonders whether love of country or patriotism means anything nowadays to the selfish partisans striving to win political power for themselves. It seems incredible that a motion would be made the same week in the British Parliament by the left-wing Socialists to bring about the cancellation of American bases for missiles and the stock-piling of nuclear weapons. It is discouraging to note that in America there are Democrats of prominence in both Houses of Congress always ready to issue statements disparaging what their own government has done abroad — as if the American people will believe the worst, just because political opponents give voice to it.

President Eisenhower came out pretty well at Paris, even though he disappointed the prophets of gloom, who only a couple of weeks ago had drawn word pictures of a man utterly incapable of holding office or of exercising leadership.

There is no doubt that Mr. Eisenhower's friendly personality had its effect in the formal sessions and in private meetings with the heads of state. He doesn't charm his listeners by oratory or by fancy phrases. But he does have the faculty of breathing a spirit of conciliation and sincerity that wins him the admiration and the confidence of the members of a conference such as was held last week at Paris.

While the same tangible results could doubtless have been accomplished by a conference of the foreign ministers of the same 15 countries, it was a "plus" in many ways that the President could be there, because it certainly added to the drama and propaganda value of the occasion.

To get the key to future events, it isn't the words of the all-inclusive communique which will need to be examined. It is what the political opposition in some of the West European countries—much of it insidiously inspired by Communist infiltrators—does in the court of public opinion. Their struggle to prevent the establishment of American missile bases in Europe, along with the stock-piling of nuclear weapons, has just begun. The Communists will leave no stone unturned to accomplish their ends.

It will require the resoluteness of every government, whose spokesmen must conduct an aggressive campaign in the press and radio within each country, to prevent the Communists from persuading the average man that the West is bent on war, when the truth is it is striving only to build up enough deterrent power to prevent another world war.

Doctors Have Quit Mass Tonsillectomies

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

At the turn of the century, tonsils were blamed for everything from poor grades in school to rheumatism. They were maligned to such an extent that many parents could hardly wait for their children to grow old enough to have them removed. But the worm has turned.

Nowadays, tonsillectomy is not performed except for good reasons. Some recent statistics quoted by Dr. Edwin F. Hirsch of Chicago are an index of the change in concept. In 1922, of all the surgical procedures done at St. Luke's hospital, 32.3 per cent were tonsillectomies; in 1952, the percentage was 3.3.

Tonsils are olive sized glands that guard the entrance to the throat, filtering out a variety of microorganisms. These useful barriers prevent germs from entering the system and should not be removed unless they become disease producers.

In children, tonsils enlarge whenever an infection exists in the upper respiratory passageways but nothing need be done about them unless they act as a reservoir and reinfest the body. This occurs when organisms get caught in the tonsillar meshwork, set up housekeeping, and develop abscesses or other nests of infection.

As a result, the youngster is likely to develop more than the average number of colds and earaches and tonsillectomy may be needed to eliminate the source of trouble. This is chronic infection in contrast to acute tonsillitis that occurs with most strep infections. Bacteria in the diseased tonsils keep the throat stirred up, affect appetite, and may lower vitality.

Occasionally there is a relationship between infected tonsils and rheumatism. Some physicians still believe that foci of infection in the tonsils may cause diseases like nephritis, vein infection (phlebitis), recurrent enlargement of the glands in the neck, and eye infection.

But others are skeptical. They cannot see how bacteria from the tonsils are able to invade only certain organs such as the kidneys, eyes, or muscles. Germs can hardly be so selective.

Surgery is advised, however,

Detroit Lions Capture NFL Western Division Crown

Second Half Rally Beats 49ers, 31-27

60,000 See Playoff Tilt; Championship Game Set Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Detroit Lions, refusing to quit when 20 points behind, staged a thrilling second half rally today and whipped the San Francisco 49ers 31-27 to win the Western Conference championship of the National Football League.

The victory in the playoff game before a capacity crowd of nearly 60,000 in Kezar Stadium and a national television audience gave the Lions a date with the Cleveland Browns next Sunday in Detroit for the NFL title.

The Lions last held the league crown in 1953.

Tracy Scores Twice

Breakaway back Tom Tracy provided the Lions with two touchdowns, his second on a brilliant 39-yard burst from scrimmage. Gene Gorman scored the fourth quarter touchdown which, combined with Jim Martin's fourth conversion, gave Detroit a 28-27 edge with the final period just 43 seconds old.

Twice again the Lions threatened and added three more points on Martin's 13-yard field goal with two minutes left to play, as the 49ers: failed in their bid for their first title in 12 years of trying.

San Francisco held a 24-7 half-time advantage on three touchdowns passes by Y. A. Tittle and a 25-yard field goal by Gordy Soltau. As the third quarter started, Soltau added three more points on a 10-yard kick for a 27-7 lead.

Then Tittle fumbled and Bob Long recovered for the Lions on the San Francisco 28. Nine plays later, Tracy smashed a yard for a touchdown and Martin converted.

Quarterback Tobin Rote provided the key play on a fourth down situation at the 20 when he hit Hopalong Cassidy with a 14-yard pass that kept Detroit moving.

Runs 59 Yards

A minute and a half later, with the ball on the Detroit 41, the 210-pound Tracy cut around right end, reversed his field, ducked around and under tacklers and went all the way—59 yards for a touchdown.

Martin's conversion made it 21-27 still in San Francisco's favor.

The clock showed 12 minutes and 40 seconds gone in the third period. Then on the final play of the quarter, with the Lions still in possession, Rote hit end Steve Junker on a pass play that carried 37 yards to San Francisco's 15.

Tracy made 10 Rote three and Gorman ploughed over the final two for the touchdown.

Playing under sunny skies on a slippery field, Tittle threw touchdowns passes of 34 yards to R. C. Owen, 47 to Hugh McElhenry and 12 to Billy Wilson in the 49ers' fired-up first half performance.

Detroit's only first half score came on a 61-yard drive in the second period. It took eight plays including four passes by Rote for 55 yards. The last one was four yards to Junker for the payoff.

San Francisco and Detroit tied in the regular season with 8 victories and 4 losses each.

Straight T Attack

The 49ers tried to surprise the Lions with a straight T-formation instead of their usual flanker offense.

End Clyde Conner, hurt Nov. 17 against Detroit, returned to action and McElhenry returned to the backfield from end.

Fullback Gene Babb and Joe Perry completed the straight T attack which was used frequently in an effort to give Tittle more time.

Rote connected on 16 of 30 passes for 214 yards while Tittle had 18 of 31 for 248 yards.

Tracy gained 86 yards in 11 plays for a 7.2 rushing average. McElhenry, alternating between halfback and end, got 82 yards in 14 tries for 5.87.

First Wilson Title

The Lions' 31 points were the same number they scored in both regular season meetings with the 49ers. They lost the first time 31-35 but won the second 31-10.

The hard won conference title was the first for Lion coach George Wilson, who took over when Buddy Parker quit at the start of the season.

Detroit 0 7 14 10—31
San Francisco 14 10 3 0—27
Detroit scoring — Touchdowns: Junker (4, pass from Rote), Tracy (2, 1 plunge; 59, run), Gorman (2, plunge). Field goal: Martin (1, conversions: Martin 4.

San Francisco scoring — Touchdowns: Owens (34, pass from Tittle), McElhenry (47, pass-run from Tittle), Wilson (12, pass from Tittle). Field goals: Soltau (2, 25, 10). Conversions: Soltau 3.

Terrors Elect Grid Captains For 1958

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Coach Bob Waldorf has announced that the Western Maryland College football team has elected co-captains for the 1958 season. They are Don Dewey and Warren Schwartz.

Don Dewey hails from Arlington, Virginia, and is a graduate of Washington and Lee High School, Majoring in Economics. Dewey is now a junior at WMC. This past season Dewey played guard as a regular starter for the Green Terrors.

Warren Schwartz comes from Baltimore, Md., where he graduated from Forest Park High School. Also a junior, Schwartz is majoring in Physical Education-Education. Schwartz was the starting signal caller for the Green Terrors this season. At the end of the season Schwartz ranked 41st in the nation for forward passing.

Rote Played Best Game Says Wilson

Directed Detroit's Second Half Rally

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22 (AP)—Coach George Wilson, speaking above the happy din in the Detroit Lions' dressing room, said today that quarterback Tobin Rote played one of his finest games in the 31-27 comeback victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

Rote directed the Lions in the second half rally that pulled the club from a 7-27 deficit to a 31-27 triumph that meant the championship of the National Football League's Western Conference.

Rote took over two weeks ago as starting quarterback after Bobby Layne suffered a broken ankle. Bobby was here to congratulate his successor and the other Lions as the team trotted in to the dressing room.

"Rote was great, especially in the second half," Layne said.

Rote threw a touchdown pass in the first half and connected on 16 out of 30 throws for 214 yards during the day.
"We seemed wound too tight in the first half," Coach Wilson said. "It's hard to say what happened to us but if there was a turning point it was when San Francisco failed to score seven points after McElhenry's long run."

On the first play of the third quarter, with San Francisco leading 24-7, halfback Hugh McElhenry ran 71 yards to the Lion 9. Three plays later, with the ball on the 3, the 49ers took a field goal, making it 27-7.

St. Patrick's Scores Initial CYO Loop Win

St. Patrick's of Cumberland scored its initial victory in the Catholic Youth Basketball League yesterday with a 48-29 triumph over St. Joseph's of Midland at SS. Peter and Paul court.

The Cumberlanders jumped off to a 13-5 first quarter lead and had little trouble with the visitors, leading by 20 points as the fourth period opened, 41-21.

Ricky Shaffer with 11 points and Jerry Lowery with 10 topped the scorers for Coach Gene Scallietta's charges. High man for St. Joseph's was Youngblood with 10 tallies. The lineups:

How Allie Got Gair

Here's how Gair Allie, the Pittsburgh Pirates infielder finishing up his two-year tour of Army service, got his first name. His mother, just before Gair's birth, saw the name in a movie fan magazine — and liked it! Incidentally, the other two Bucs in service also are infielders: Bill Mazeroski and Buddy Pritchard, the bonus youngster from Southern California. Both are on six-month hitches and expected out in the spring.

Tar Heels Are Still Power In Coast Circuit

ACC Opponents Still Fear N. C. Tossers

[By The Associated Press]
So he got whipped by a boy from across the tracks. The question is, is he still the toughest kid on this block?

Amid the analyzing, commiserating and general whoop-de-do over North Carolina's 75-64 loss to West Virginia in the Kentucky Invitational, UNC's Atlantic Coast Conference neighbors may be pardoned for considering the loss in a narrower sense.

Probably no ACC team this year figured the Tar Heels were invincible, even after they had extended their two-season winning streak to 37 games, its greatest length. For that matter, her conference neighbors never were exactly reverential about UNC last season, and the Tar Heels won six ACC games then by five points or less.

Who are the top candidates to cut North Carolina down to size in her own block?

Terps Are Steady
Maryland certainly is one of them. The Terps, now 5-0 for the season, play steady basketball and their upperclassmen have been given brilliant help from a big crop of talented sophomores.

North Carolina State is another. The Wolfpack has a 6-1 record so far and may have better depth in position than either UNC or Maryland.

Duke or South Carolina on a given night might do it. So might Clemson, which seems to have hit its stride in the Carrousel Tournament. Virginia and Wake Forest couldn't handle the assignment at present.

The question may come up Thursday at Raleigh, N.C., where UNC defends its Dixie Classic title in a field including three other ACC teams and four strong eastern and midwestern clubs. The first round pairings are Wake Forest-Duquesne, N.C. State-Northwestern, North Carolina-St. Louis and Duke-Seton Hall.

All of the ACC teams get into the tournament act before the year ends.

Virginia Meets LaSalle
Virginia plays LaSalle in a first round game Thursday of the Richmond (Va.) Invitational. Richmond faces Penn.

Next Saturday Maryland faces Vanderbilt in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, while Memphis State and Loyola make up the rest of the field.

Clemson, which won fifth place Saturday night in the Carrousel at Charlotte and South Carolina will be in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., next Sunday, playing first round games, respectively, against Florida and Georgia.

Both Duke and South Carolina lost non-conference road games Saturday.
Duke lost 87-84 to Pitt, but it took two overtimes and the amazing shooting of Pitt's Don Hennon, who scored 45 points to set an individual scoring record for the school. Jack Boyd topped the Blue Devils with 16.

South Carolina, led by Dickie Prater, rallied to within four points of St. Bonaventure early in the second half at Buffalo, N.Y., but the northern team then ran away with it for a 79-59 victory. Prater had 20 to lead the Gamecocks.

Hawks Win, 123-115

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 22 (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks, with Cliff Hagan and Win Wilfong chipping in with crucial points in the fourth quarter, topped the Minneapolis Lakers today 123-115 in a National Basketball Assn. game. The victory was the Hawks' eighth in a row.

Mitt Action Slows Down On Holidays

Tiger Jones Meets Giardello Friday

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Joey Giardello and Ralph (Tiger) Jones keep the wheels moving slowly in a Friday bout at Miami Beach, Fla. while most of the boxing business slows down for the holiday season.

There will be no boxing show on Wednesday, Christmas Night, and a very limited schedule of bouts throughout the world.

Giardello, unbeaten in his last 13 bouts, is keeping busy with hopes for a June middleweight title match. Although Carmen Basilio and Sugar Ray Robinson have not signed for their rematch there is a strong possibility they will fight in Chicago in February.

It will be the eighth start of the year for both Giardello and Jones. Giardello's victims were Randy Sandy, Rory Calhoun, Joe Gray, Chico Vejar, Bobby Lane and Wilf Greaves. He also fought a no-decision match with Willie Vaughn. Jones defeated Hardy Smallwood, Arthur King and Vejar, drew with Gray and lost his last three to Gene Fuller, Del Flanagan and Vaughn.

Giardello has a 70-13-5 record with one no-decision and Jones is 44-20-4 for 68 starts.

Tommy Tibbs of Boston, a chunky young lightweight, boxes Lulu Perez of Brooklyn at St. Nicholas Arena in the Monday series. It will be Tibbs' 12th bout of a year that has seen him appear in Hollywood, Boston, Caracas and New York for a 9-1-1 record. Perez is 3-3-1 for the year.

Orville Pitts, the 23-year-old Wisconsin collegian from Milwaukee, takes on Joe Rowan of Phoenixville, Pa. in a 10-round heavyweight match Saturday at Milwaukee.

Imes And Howell Score 29 Points

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 22—LaSalle High's unbeaten Explorers made it six in a row here today with an easy 57-28 decision over an outclassed South Hills Catholic High basketball team.

Coach George Geatz' charges jumped off to a 13-5 first quarter lead, increased it to 30-13 at half-time, and held a 42-23 margin at the close of the third quarter.

The loss was the first for the South Hills quintet in nine games and marked the third triumph in the past six days for the Cumberland, Md., squad.

Charles "Chazz" Imes added to his Cumberland city scoring lead with a 16-point output here today. His total led the 23-goal attack for the Explorers. Charley Howell chipped in with 13 points for the winners.

High man for South Hill, a student body of about 600, was Forward Quinn with nine tallies. South Hill is two years old and the student body is comprised of Freshman and Sophomore classes only. Most of their games this season are with school teams of comparable quality. The lineups:

Bob Zuppke, All-Time Illinois Coaching Great, Dies

Retired Grid Mentor Was 78 Years Old

Succumbs In Cole Memorial Hospital Of Prostatic Cancer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 22 (P)—Robert C. (Bob) Zuppke, an all-time coaching great of college football, died today.

Zuppke, who was 78, retired as University of Illinois grid coach in 1941 after 29 years service. His prize pupil was the immortal "Galloping Ghost," Harold (Red) Grange.

The Illini football mentor died of prostatic cancer, complicated by high blood pressure and a heart ailment. Zuppke had undergone a major operation for the prostate condition in 1949, and again in 1953.

Suffered Stroke

In 1953, he suffered a serious stroke, but recovered rapidly and nine months later married his housekeeper of 23 years, Leona P. Ray. Mrs. Zuppke was at her husband's bedside in Cole Memorial Hospital when he died.

Zuppke, born in Berlin, produced seven Big Ten titles for the Illini. His teams won 131 games, lost 80 and tied 12.

The pioneer coach was a master at trickery on the field and the pointed phrase off the field. Zuppke also coached George Halas, who went on to become owner-coach of the Chicago Bears and remain one of his close friends.

Zuppke was a Big Ten contemporary of such other coaching giants as Chicago's Amos Alonzo Stagg and Michigan's Fielding (Hurry-up) Yost with whom he conducted spirited rivalries.

Zuppke and Notre Dame's Knute Rockne also held strong admiration for each other's coaching prowess.

Football Advisor

Since 1941, Zuppke's only contact with football, other than as a spectator, was in an advisory capacity for several years on Halas' Bear staff. But failing health forced him to forego that several years ago.

He had been dividing his time between his six-room apartment near downtown Champaign and his summer home near Muskegon, Mich., where he began his coaching career at the high school level in 1905.

Zuppke wintered at Phoenix, Ariz.

Pallbearers For Zuppke Among Grid's Greatest

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 22 (P)—Honorary pallbearers were selected today for the funeral Tuesday of Robert C. Zuppke, pioneer Illinois football coach. The list contains some of the game's most notable men.

Zuppke, 78, died today of cancer. Funeral services will be held in the First Presbyterian Church at Champaign and the body will be cremated.

Charles Flynn, Illinois public information director, said honorary pallbearers include:

Zup's Death Mourned By Grid World

Grange Says Great Figure Is Lost

(By The Associated Press)

Football contemporaries joined in calling Bob Zuppke one of the great college coaches of all time yesterday in lamenting the death of the former Illinois wizard.

Andy Kerr, who coached at Colgate, Pittsburgh, Stanford and other colleges, termed Zuppke "one of the country's great coaches of a generation now going."

"He was the type of coach who had original ideas and, along that line, made a real contribution to the game of football."

Lou Little, longtime Columbia coach and now chairman of the Football Coaches Rules Committee, said "it is a great loss, not only to the athletic world but to the academic world as well. He was one of the greatest contributors to football."

Harold (Red) Grange, the "Galloping Ghost" of Illinois football, said at Miami, Fla., the gridiron had lost one of its greatest figures with Zuppke's death.

Zuppke was one of the game's outstanding innovators, Grange said.

Red, who described Zuppke as "closer to me than anyone except my father," said the coach originated such phases of the game as the screen pass, the huddle and the spiral pass from center.

In Stockton, Calif., Amos Alonzo Stagg, the grand old man of football described Zuppke as "a very able coach, a good thinker."

"Bob was a lot of fun in his leisure," recalled Stagg whose University of Chicago teams tangled with Zuppke's Illini.

"But he was all absorbed completely during the football season."

No Tears Shed By N. C. Coach Over WVU Loss

"Matter Of Time" McGuire Relates

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

"No weeping at all. It was just a matter of time."

That's the way North Carolina Coach Frank McGuire viewed his defending national champion Tar Heels today—no tears and no winning streak.

The victory string, fifth longest in major college basketball history, was snapped at 37 by West Virginia 75-64 Saturday in the championship game of the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

It was North Carolina's first major test of the season and the Mountaineers rapped 'em, but good.

North Carolina was the biggest, but not the only giant to topple from the unbeaten ranks last weekend.

Illini Knocked Off

Illinois, venturing away from home for the first time in seven games, was knocked off 69-60 by Iowa State, Oregon State was beaten 77-67 in overtime by Iowa, Alabama disposed of Louisiana Tech, one of the small college powers, 63-42 in the title game of the Carrousel Tournament, and LaSalle beat Niagara in overtime 69-68.

While West Virginia picked up steam and prestige, the other eight appearances to North Carolina's No. 1 ranking in the Associated Press poll continued to roll.

Kansas finally crushed California's defense and won No. 7, 58-52. Kansas State put its seventh victory in the bag with a 70-63 job on Washington. Cincinnati kept rolling with a 70-53 victory over Houston, and Michigan State defeated Notre Dame 79-72.

Maryland, the only other unbeaten team among last week's top 10, was idle.

West Virginia, now 8-0 and ranked No. 8 in the nation last week, never trailed, with the Mountaineers triggering a balanced offense and still able to put down North Carolina rallies. The West Virginians out-rebounded the champs 63-41 and won going to the wire.

North Carolina sparkplug Pete Brennan fouled out with 5:18 left and the Tar Heels, who had won their first five games this season, trailing 55-51. West Virginia pulled away quickly, but with less than 2 1/2 minutes left had only a 66-60 lead, before soph Jerry West sank three foul shots that wrapped it up.

Mountaineers Impressive
It was an impressive weekend all around for the Mountaineers, who had beaten fifth-ranked Kentucky 77-70 in Friday's first round.

Kentucky took third place with a 78-58 decision over Minnesota. The Gophers, who had entered the tourney unbeaten, were beaten 73-67 by North Carolina Friday.

San Francisco, beaten but once, defeated cold-shooting Louisville for the Blue Grass title 62-55. Seattle, paced by 29 points from Elgin Baylor, voted the tournament's most valuable player, whipped Army 30-51 for third place.

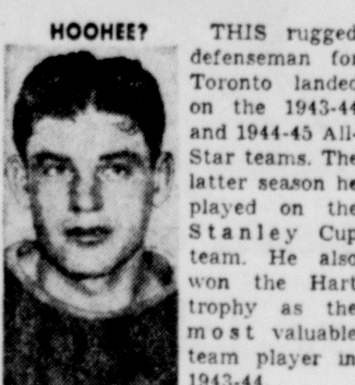

California gave Kansas a bit of trouble until the last 6 minutes after gaining a 44-44 tie. The Bears held Wilt Chamberlain to 19 points, checking the big guy with only two points for 7 1/2 minutes of the second half.

That low production and a 25-point job by Oscar Robertson for Cincinnati left Pitt's little (5-8) Don Hennon the top individual scorer in major ball. Hennon, scoring a Pitt record 45 in an 87-84 (Cont. on Page 12)

Valo Is Signed By Dodger Club

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22 (INS)—Outfielder Elmer Valo, one of the most successful pinch-hitters in the National League last year, signed his 1958 contract with the Los Angeles Dodgers today.

No salary was revealed for the Czechoslovakian-born veteran major leagueer, the seventh Dodger in the fold.

Valo, who has a lifetime batting average of .285, hit .273 for the Dodgers last season. As a pinch-hitter, however, he had an on-base record of .422.

Horse Owners Protest Rent

Laurel Officials Plan Conference Today

BALTIMORE, Dec. 22 (P)—Horsemen whose stables are wintering at Laurel Race Course will meet with track officials tomorrow to officially protest rental charges on stalls and tack rooms.

Jack Boniface, regional secretary of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn., says if the meeting is unproductive, the HBPA will confer with the State Racing Commission tomorrow afternoon.

Maryland's 1958 race season begins Feb. 12 at Bowie, but Laurel currently is stabling more horses than any other track in the state.

Laurel officials said they instituted a $1-per-day fee for stalls and $25 per tack room to offset the cost of fuel oil and the expense of maintaining extra guards. The charges will be in effect until Jan. 15.

John Manfuso, chairman of the HBPA's national board of directors, says Laurel is the only track in Maryland to levy the rentals. The HBPA contends horsemen already are undergoing considerable expense in preparing their stables for winter racing at Bowie and it is unfair for Laurel to levy a fee for stabling.

Manfuso said Laurel erred in announcing the unexpected policy after 500 horses already were on the grounds.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22 (INS)—Large families, she's got a big Pardon my being facetious about anything as important to Jeanne Crain as her new deal to star in a series of 39 TV shows based on Patrick Dennis' "Guestward Ho!" best seller. But I couldn't help thinking that with the fifth child just born to Jeanne and Paul Brinkman, plus both their Sidney Fischgrund gave to Jimmy's clients, Adrian Samish told me that Buddy Ebsen and Keith Larsen have been signed for "Northwest Passage," a TV series to be made for NBC. "Don't you remember that this is the Kenneth Roberts story that started Spencer Tracy? It's a great adventure story and perfect for a series," he said. The Fischgrund home is the kind you'd like to move right into, with big rooms, modern decor, and plenty of windows. Barbara Fischgrund, who is John Ford's daughter, took me on a personal tour and I was intrigued by so many modern conveniences. The whole house was decorated in a beautiful Christmas motif and the four young people were very charming hosts.

When Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner are married next Saturday (I exclusively reported the date in this column), they won't mind having a small wedding. Thursday all their pals came to the shower given by Mar Anita and Dick Sale and brought beautiful gifts.

Natalie's co-stars, Frank Sinatra, Tony Curtis, and her director Delmer Daves, of "Kings Go Forth," all came directly from the studio and all brought beautiful gifts.

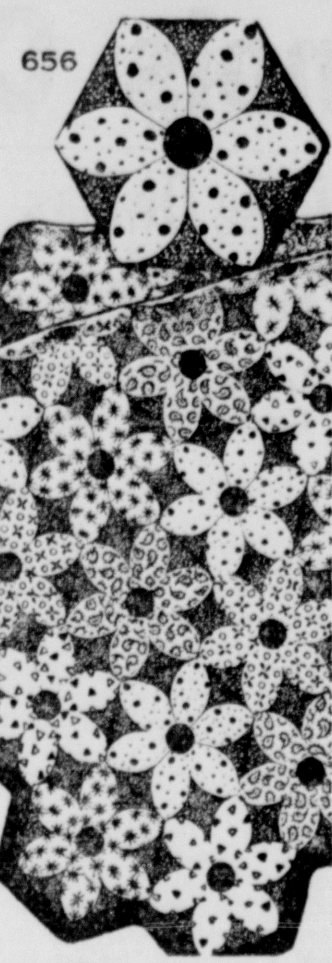

Frankie, of course, was with Betty Bacall, and the affection these two show for each other inclines me to believe they might marry, although I didn't believe it in the beginning.

Rock Hudson and Clifton Webb had a lot to say to each other. Rock has put back some of the weight he lost and he looks very well again. He sat and talked to Virginia Zucchi and myself for a long time. I missed Jane Russell, Laraine Day and Leo Durocher, who left before we reached the Sales. The Walter Lungs, Richard Lang, Wynn Rocamora, Jimmy McHugh, Cesar Romero were among those who admired the beautiful gifts.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: David Bartlett, son of Sy Bartlett and Ellen Drew, and his wife have dated the stork again.

It was a very happy birthday for Danny Kaye's eleven year old Dina. Her father arrived home in time for her birthday and Christmas from "Me and The Colonel" location in France. I saw Jack Benny's show last week, and he kept me in stitches. In my opinion Jack is such a fine comedian he could get laughs just by reading a telephone book. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Be A Treat To Meet

Do you like to meet people? A thoughtful answer may be both yes and no. Yes, because all human beings are more interested in people than anything else in the world, and new acquaintances now and then make life more interesting. No, because, very fundamentally, all of us are a little shy and inclined to stick to the comfortably familiar.

Now that you're encountering so many more strangers than usual during the holidays, analyze that yes and no answer seriously. If it is more on the yes side, good for you. But if it's more on the no side, see if you can't swing your feelings over to the other side.

How interested you are in meeting new people makes the big difference in how interested they are in meeting you. It's only natural to respond to the person who is clearly pleased to be introduced to you, and this is definitely a two-way street. Decide that you sincerely DO look forward to making new acquaintances, then, from now on, put more into showing it every time there's a chance to. Be a treat to meet because you obviously are gracious and friendly and interested in others, and this holiday season will be the beginning of most rewarding associations to come.

How should you show your interest? Emphasize the meaning of polite phrases at an introduction with the tones of your voice. Have a little more to say, gently, but sincerely. Make a point of looking at each person directly. Be the first to offer your hand. Remember names—really make an effort to. Introduce yourself if no one else does. Give extra attention to anyone who's shy or outside the center of activity.

TOMORROW: Eat Without Worry.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM—You are welcome, free of charge, to the remainder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope. (Copyright 1957, John F. Dille Co.)

Dogging It

HAMILTON, Ohio (P)—Tom Grubbs, 33, of nearby City View Heights was in the dog house—literally. Police, searching for him when he failed to appear in court to answer a reckless driving charge, found him hiding in a dog house at the rear of his home.

Nobel Winner Urges Information Office

PALO ALTO, Calif., Dec. 22 (P)—Dr. William Shockley, 1956 co-winner of the Nobel Prize for physics, recently urged establishment of an "Institute of Public Enlightenment" to "use the skills and media of advertising" to inform the public.

Dr. Shockley said the United States needs "an extensive program of public education on important national issues" if the country is to "avoid the extreme reactions which have hit it" since the successful launching of the Russian Sputniks.

Graham Crusade Nets $217,618

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—The New York crusade of evangelist Billy Graham shows a net profit of $217,618.

The final audit was announced last week by the crusade's executive committee, which said $67,618 will be given to the Protestant Council of the City of New York, which initiated the crusade.

The $150,000 balance will go to the Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. in Minneapolis, Minn., to support telecasts of subsequent crusades. Graham and his associates were on salary from the association.

The audit showed expenditures of $2,632,412.91 and income of $2,850,030.91, covering the period from May 17 to Dec. 16 to include the crusade's follow-up program.

Webster Attends State Meeting

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster attended an all-day state meeting Thursday in Baltimore with all of the other county superintendents.

Dr. Paul Mort of Columbia University was the principal speaker. His remarks concerned the financing of a school construction and administration program.

All but one of the county superintendents attended and Dr. John Fisher, superintendent of Baltimore City schools, also was there.

Rose Bowl Rivals Drill And Relax In Calif. Sunshine

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 22 (AP)—The Rose Bowl rivals, Oregon and Ohio State, today took advantage of bright sunshine to practice a bit and relax.

Woody Hayes, the unpredictable coach of the Big Ten champions, switched signals overnight and the Buckeyes journeyed in the morning for several hours at famed Disneyland.

Then Hayes put the 44-man squad through an afternoon drill. Originally he had planned to let the players visit Walt Disney's play park tomorrow.

Oregon's Pacific Coast conference co-champions stayed with their schedule. Coach Len Casanova put the Ducks through a picture-taking session in the afternoon, followed by a light drill. Tomorrow the 45-man squad will work out in the morning and visit Disneyland in the afternoon.

Finsterwald Is Pro-Am Winner

BOCA RATON, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, who said he was putting much better than he usually does, won the first annual Boca Raton Pro-Amateur Invitational Golf Tournament today with a 36-hole card of 133.

The 28-year-old Tequesta, Fla., pro, one of the most consistent players on the PGA circuit, had a 35 on the front nine and a 31 on the back today for a four-under-par 66.

His dependable putting gave him birdies on the second, fifth, 12th and 13th holes. He hit a 150-yard, 9-iron shot to within eight inches of the cup on the 10th hole.

A Question Of Morality

From Princeton, N. J., comes this protest: "On tonight's Climax" program, John Drew Barrymore starred in a script about the problem of a student cheating on a college exam. The case is complicated because our hero is something of a paranoiac as well as a student trying hard. The show was quite well done, I thought, but the central theme—that each case of cheating must be dealt with according to individual motivations and in some instances condoned—is specious to say the least.

"The poor guy who got caught was failed. The smart guys who didn't get caught passed. Our sympathies were obviously directed in favor of the poor sick one who was caught, and the professor who flunked him was the unthinking culprit because he had no mercy. Now I may be a bug on the subject but it seems to me this thesis is a mighty dangerous symptomatic one. Recently there was a remarkable and horrifying article in 'The New Yorker' about American troops' behavior in Korean and Chinese prison camps. We have also been reading much about American softness. The thesis of 'Two Tests on Tuesday' reflects to a sickening degree the kind of background which has produced whatever softness there may be, as exemplified by the American prisoners in Korea.

"If we were to take this argument to its logical extreme, we'd have to admire dishonesty in someone who is a sympathetic character and condemn those who don't understand."

That letter is typical of a good many I have had lately complaining—quite rightly, I think—about the moral and ethical points of view of dramatic shows. I didn't see "Two Tests on Tuesday" but I have the script here and I must admit that the sympathy bit is loaded on the side of the college student. The poor kid works in a parking lot to pay his way through college. That, plus his school work, means he gets only four hours sleep a night. He is approaching the point of complete exhaustion. He has a wife and child. His whole future is tied up in whether he passes his exam or not.

So how can you fail to feel that the professor should pass him? But the trouble with this kind of playwrighting is that it is unethical. A great many heroes have had a bum shake from the outset; they have been put, by circumstances outside their control, into intolerable positions. Just the same, retribution caught up with them because it had to. This is the nature of tragedy. Society demands certain penalties for certain transgressions and when you make exceptions for whatever reasons—I am not speaking of the courts now but of dramatic works—you weaken the moral fabric of your play. And in every viewer there is a little weakening of his own moral fiber. All of us, from day to day, have to withstand temptations of some sort. If we see weakness condoned for whatever reason, it pulls the rug out from under the rest of us.

I hate to strike such a righteous attitude but I feel strongly that dramatically it leaves the player grossly unsatisfied. Anna Karenina had every reason to leave her husband; she is an enormously sympathetic character; we wish she could find happiness. But, if she had found happiness in adultery, would "Anna Karenina" have been the great book that it is? Would we not have put the book down feeling vaguely troubled and unsatisfied?

Recently another dramatic show—I forget which one—had a story in which the hero kited some checks. He got away with it because everyone was so understanding and sympathetic about his problems, which were all of his own making. But this kind of sympathy, while it might be nice to have in your neighbor, is not at all satisfying on television and there have been increasing complaints from viewers who feel that morally their TV set is betraying them.

3 hearts Pass 4 spades Pass

5 no trump Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A. Partner's rebid of two hearts is known to the trade as a "reverse bid" and designates a powerful holding, for after this bid, responder, if he wished to return to diamonds, would have to climb to the three level. A reverse bid should normally be based upon a holding of about 15 points. When North subsequently jumped to three no trump, he indicated that his values were principally high cards, that he had more than a mere 10. You have 18 high card points, which means the opponents will be lucky to have as much as a queen, and a bid of seven no trump is in order.

Q. 3—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠ A 10 6 3 2 ♥ 8 4 ♠ A Q 9 4 2

What is your response?

A. Four hearts. This hand is not quite strong enough in high cards for a three heart bid, and the preemptive raise is therefore recommended. It may be very effective in shutting out an adverse spade bid.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ Q 10 9 6 3 ♥ 3 6 2 ♠ K Q J 8 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 spade Pass 2 hearts Pass

3 hearts Pass ?

What do you bid?

A. Even though you have the playing strength to justify a redouble, that call is not recommended. We prefer a bid of four spades, which has the merit of preventing the opponents from getting together and possibly pushing you beyond your depth.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ A 8 6 4 ♥ A 10 9 8 5 ♦ 10 9 3 ♣ A

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 club Pass 1 heart Pass

2 hearts Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A. This hand rates one more try, and the suggested call is three hearts. On a point count basis, the hand is valued at 11 points, eight in high cards and two for distribution. The additional point is to be added for the fifth heart when partner supports that suit.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ A 9 4 2 ♥ A K ♠ A K Q 10 ♠ A K 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 spade Pass 2 diamonds Pass

3 spades Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A. Since you are now assured that partner will respond to your next bid, there is no great necessity for jumping. A slam contract is definitely in the offing, and you should take it easy as the best means of ascertaining as to which denomination will prove most playable. Bid three clubs and await your partner's reply.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ Q J 9 8 2 ♥ A 5 ♦ 10 4 2 ♠ A Q 6

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 spade Pass 2 diamonds Pass

3 spades Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A. While it may be tempting to bid four spades, the hand is not strong enough to justify a double of two spades bid, which would induce East to run out to three diamonds, a contract which you are by no means prepared to hurt.

Q. 8—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠ Q 8 4 3 2 ♥ A 10 4 ♠ K 9 5 ♠ 8 3

What is your response?

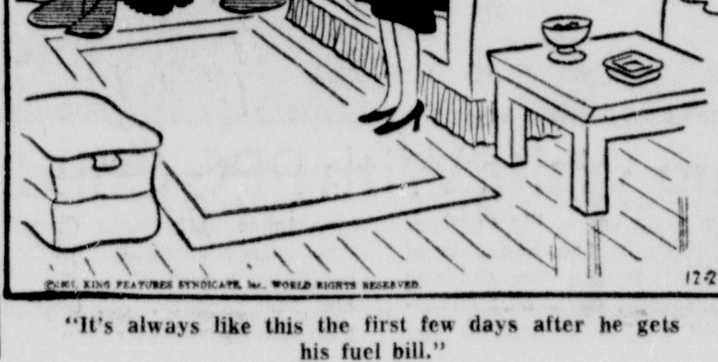

A. Two hearts. A response of one spade should be avoided, for it might lead to complications. This hand is not strong enough to justify two forward moving bids. In support of hearts it is worth only nine points and therefore comes within the limit of a single raise.

Area AFL-CIO Awaits Orders On Ouster

State Council Told To Expel Teamsters

Officers of the Western Maryland Labor Council expect soon to receive orders from national AFL-CIO headquarters for the immediate expulsion of officers or delegates from the ousted Teamsters Union.

Any action that is taken here will neither be immediate nor automatic, it was learned last night.

The Associated Press reported yesterday that orders have been given for the ouster of five high-ranking officers of the Maryland State-District of Columbia AFL-CIO Council.

To Study Letter

A letter from national AFL-CIO headquarters, which went out to all state units, said members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters are no longer eligible for membership on any union body and should be expelled immediately. The teamsters union has been ousted from the AFL-CIO.

Harry Cohen, president of the Maryland-D.C. council, and four vice presidents, including C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Teamsters Local 453 here, are members of the teamsters union.

Charles A. Della, executive secretary of the council, said no action would be taken until the council has an opportunity to study the letter.

Has Not Arrived

A similar communication is expected by the Western Maryland Labor Council, but it had not arrived last night.

Informed sources said Allegany County labor unions, which have maintained harmonious ties with the Teamsters Union here for decades, are not likely to break the relationship voluntarily and may resort to evasive tactics which meet the letter of the law.

Charles E. Bramble, president of Teamsters Local 453, said last night the union's executive board met here yesterday to discuss the report but took no action.

He said Local 453 will wait for instructions but that its officers and delegates plan to attend the next meeting of the State AFL-CIO.

He said the trouble "was not of our making" and that Local 453 will try to get along with other unions as it has in the past.

Is Paying Dues

The 1,600-member union has continued to pay per capita dues to all bodies with which it is affiliated and intends to fulfill the obligations unless it is thrown out, he said.

It also intends, he said, to live up to all its obligations in agreements with the AFL-CIO bodies and labor bodies such as the Building Trades and Heavy Construction Councils.

He said the union here is "confused" and is waiting to see what happens but intends to cooperate with other unions as it has in the past.

At its recent meeting, the Western Maryland AFL-CIO elected Mr. Stutzman as recording secretary to succeed the late Joseph E. Garlitz.

The AFL-CIO ouster of the Teamsters and Bakery Workers unions is also viewed here as upsetting the delicate balance of power held by the former AFL and CIO in the recently merged organization.

The AFL received the top posts in the national and state organizations and split lesser offices 50-50 in the merged organizations.

Today's Sermonette

Today's Sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at Living Stone Church of the Brethren by the pastor, Rev. Wayne J. Eberly. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Glory be to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased. (Luke 2:14, R.S.V.)

Christ And Peace

By REV. WAYNE J. EBERLY

Among the needs of men which we see met by the Christ, none is more pressing today than peace. In terms of the tensions of the world, there is much similarity between our day and the day of the Caesars. Armies of occupation, national jealousies, exploitation of underprivileged, hatred, fear: these things flourished in the First Century B. C. and are a source of current unease. In addition we are plagued in our century by the spectacle of two jittery armed camps, either of which is capable at the flick of a switch to precipitate what may well be the Last World War.

Yet, in spite of our failure to receive the message, we affirm that Christ is the Prince of Peace; that his reign is to be one of peace. We cannot in honesty blame all the lack of peace on those who do not profess the Christ. It is in part our failure—individually and collectively—to believe in and follow the Lord.

Basically it is a personal problem. For peace on any level occurs only between persons of peace. It is impossible to have family peace or international peace unless you and I are peaceful individuals. Not men of strong words and pompous, self-righteous attitudes, but men of humility and quiet good will bring peace.

Nativity Scene In Cresaptown

Cresaptown Methodist Church erected its annual Nativity scene on the church lawn last week. Rev. Raymond M. Crowe, pastor, said several additions were made to the scene this year which was erected by the Young Adult Fellowship of the church.

The camels, shepherd and the sheep were added this year to the scene which catches the eyes of many passersby on Route 220. Mrs. Fred Willison, president of the fellowship group, painted the figures in the Christmas scene.

Dr. W. F. Doerner Opens Office In Algonquin Hotel

DR. W. F. DOERNER JR.

Dr. Wyand Francis Doerner Jr., has opened a suite of offices for the practice of medicine at the Algonquin Hotel, according to the Allegany-Garrett Medical Society.

Dr. Doerner attended SS. Peter and Paul School and LaSalle High here, and was graduated from St. Fidelis College, Herman, Pa., with an associate in arts. Following four years with the Army Air Force, he enrolled at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, graduating in 1949 as valedictorian with the degree of bachelor of science. He then matriculated at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, where he was a member of Nu Sigma Nu fraternity, and received his degree in 1953.

Following a year's internship at University Hospital, Baltimore, he spent three years in residency training at St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore, and at Veterans Administration Hospitals in Baltimore and Coral Gables, Fla.

Dr. Doerner is a great-grandson of the late John Doerner who came to Cumberland in 1833 from Stuttgart, Germany, and a grandnephew of the late Dr. John A. Doerner, a member of the original medical staff of the Relief Department of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company.

Dr. Doerner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wyand F. Doerner, 14 North Johnson Street. He is married to the former Miss Doris Ann Reber, of Franklin, N. C., and they are residing at 755 Fayette Street.

Ridgeley Tree Lighting Event Is Set Tonight

Mayor Charles Fryer To Throw Switch

Ceremonies for the lighting of the Community Christmas tree in Ridgeley will be held tonight at 7:30.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer will pull the switch that will light the 40-foot tree which is located at the corner of Potomac Street and Third Avenue.

Tonight's program will open with the invocation by Rev. Harold L. May, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, and Mayor Fryer will deliver a short talk.

Master of ceremonies for the program will be William C. Kniemer, commander of Knobley Mt. Post 136, American Legion in Ridgeley. The program will be concluded with benediction by Rev. May.

Santa Claus also will appear at tonight's event and will distribute treats to all the children attending.

The huge tree was erected Saturday by members of the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company and several men from the fire company trimmed the tree yesterday afternoon.

Groups assisting with the tree lighting program besides the fire company are the Ridgeley Lions Club, Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club and the American Legion Post.

Christmas baskets which are provided by Knobley Mt. Post will be distributed this afternoon.

Dry Yule Tree Is Termed Dangerous As Can Of Gas

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker yesterday renewed his plea for care in placing and using Christmas decorations, saying a dry tree is "as dangerous as a 10-gallon can of gasoline."

A tinder-dry Christmas tree, he said, does not just burn—it seems to explode when it ignites, and all that is left after the flash fire are bare branches and the trunk.

The heat, he added, is enough to ignite curtains and other articles in the room and start a serious fire.

The tree, he said, should be small and kept moist both before and after it is brought into the home.

Use only electric lights, never candles for decorations, and keep at least six inches away from the lights.

Chief Parker said that Christmas tree lights should not be kept on for long periods of time and should never be left unattended.

He recalled a serious Christmas fire several years ago in South Cumberland, where a house was gutted after tree lights, left on for two days and nights, set fire to the tree, which went up in a flash.

And don't forget, he said, to remove all gift wrapping and packing materials from the room after the Christmas presents are opened.

Firms Secure Plans For City Project

Contractors of this area are showing considerable interest in plans of the City of Cumberland to relocate three sewer lines in South Cumberland.

Bids on the relocation of portions of the Mullin Street, Oregon Avenue and Maple Street sewers will be opened by the Mayor and Council on December 30 at 10 a.m.

At least seven sets of plans have been secured from the Engineering Department by general and sub-contractors of the Cumberland area.

The three sewer lines are located in hollows and must be moved out of the way of drainage pipes which will be installed by the contractor for the first contract of the Line C segment of the Cumberland Thruway.

The new sewer line must also be strengthened with concrete to withstand the weight of a 30-foot fill.

Jaycees Outfit 41 Children

Forty-one deserving children were outfitted with new clothes costing a total of $416.31 by members of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, using profits from the fourth annual Winter Frolic dance held December 6 at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Children who received new Christmas clothes were recommended by Jaycees and school officials at LaVale, SS. Peter and Paul's and Gephart schools.

Dr. William S. Firey was chairman of the Jaycee committee for the project. Other members include Lewis Millholland, Robert Esler, James Lindsay, Francis Deremer, Ronald J. Screen and Richard Sell.

Another local business firm co-operated by giving the Jaycees discounts on clothing purchased.

After the youngsters were outfitted they were entertained at a Christmas party at the Central YMCA arranged by the Jaycees.

Mrs. Mary Louise Dressman was in charge.

Farmers Favor 18 Practices

The Allegany Conservation Planning Committee has voted all but one of the agricultural conservation practices of 1957 again next year.

Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, manager of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee office, said the advisory committee eliminated only the practice calling for construction of wells for livestock water. This practice has been dropped from the state handbook, she said.

Among the 18 practices to be continued in 1958, the most popular ones are liming, fertilizer for permanent pasture, farm ponds for livestock water, forestry improvements and tile drainage ditches.

Miss Hoover said that letters have been sent out to some 300 county farmers announcing that applications are now being accepted for participation in the 1958 program.

Those attending the advisory committee meeting Thursday were Assistant District Forester Harry Hartman Jr., County Agent Joseph M. Steger, B. Beeson Snyder, Farmers Home Administration supervisor; E. Stuart Debrook, Soil Conservation Service aide; Wilbert R. Paul, D. T. Puffer, and Charles S. Harvey, all members of the Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors; James H. Weimer, Joseph W. Silber and Brady H. Dolly, all members of the ASC committee, and Vernon J. Loar, president of the Farm Bureau.

D'Alesandro To Return Today For Campaign

Tawes Receives Garrett Backing

BALTIMORE, Dec. 22 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, who went away to get in fighting shape for his bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, is expected home tomorrow. He will find a fight waiting.

The mayor has been vacationing at Hot Springs, Ark. As he left, he said he was taking the vacation to "melt some of this blubber off and get in fighting shape."

D'Alesandro's chief rival for the nomination, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, lined up his 9th, 10th and 11th county endorsements Saturday.

Tawes' latest endorsements came from party leaders in Carroll, Garrett and Talbot counties. Earlier he received pledges of support from Harford, Somerset, Kent, Caroline, Cecil, Allegany, Dorchester and Queen Annes counties.

Odd Bedfellows

The Carroll County endorsement came from party leaders who seldom see eye-to-eye, Truman B. Cash and George R. Mitchell.

In a separate endorsement Cash and Mitchell announced their support of James Bruce for the U.S. Senate nomination.

The two party leaders usually back rival slates. In the 1956 primary, however, both supported George P. Mahoney for the gubernatorial nomination. Mitchell managed Mahoney's campaign in Carroll County.

Mahoney is a rival of Bruce for the senatorial nomination next year. Bruce, former ambassador to Argentina, lives in Carroll County.

Hinebaugh, Gonder Backing

The Tawes endorsement from Garrett County, where most of the elective offices are held by Republicans, included the names of former Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh of Oakland, former State Sen. Bernard I. Gonder and more than 300 other described as "prominent... civic and business leaders in the county."

Talbot County Democrats who endorsed Tawes included Frank (Home Run) Baker, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, others included State Sen. John Clarence North; Dels. W. Randolph Harrison, James C. Latham and Carroll Lowe, and all other elected Democratic officials, including members of the county Democratic committee and county board of commissioners.

Challenging D'Alesandro and Tawes for the gubernatorial nomination are Dr. H. C. Byrd, former University of Maryland president who was the unsuccessful nominee in 1954, and John H. Reed, former Baltimore City councilman.

Trucks Have Hard Time Getting Over Crossings

Two trucks had a hard time getting over railroad tracks yesterday in Cumberland.

One large van which was carrying aircraft wings became hung up as it started up and over the Western Maryland Railway tracks on Baltimore Street.

Another truck was grounded at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks at Valley Street. The large vehicle was able to get free from the tracks by means of hydraulic lifters under the truck.

The truck on Baltimore Street was freed by two local riggers. One rigger attempted to disengage the van but snapped two chains in the effort. The two riggers finally pulled the truck off the tracks with four heavy chains.

A Western Maryland train was held up for some time while the vehicle straddled the single temporary track.

Brotherhood Sponsors Scout Troop

St. Paul's Unit To Be Chartered

The organization of a new Boy Scout troop, sponsored by the Brotherhood of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, was announced yesterday by R. Bowen Hardesty, Nemaquin District chairman.

Fred H. Anderson, magistrate for juvenile causes and president of the sponsoring group, is serving as chairman of the troop committee.

The troop, which has nine charter members, is meeting on Wednesday nights at 7 o'clock in Central YMCA. Arrangements are being made for a Scout room in the new church planned by the congregation.

Charles E. Gilford is serving as scoutmaster of the new troop and James H. Diehl as the institutional representative.

Other members of the troop committee are Paul G. Gipe, Richard M. Douglas, James R. Smith and Louis C. Griggs.

Charter members are William C. Fridinger, John V. Scaletti, David B. Marx, Kent Allison, Howard VanHorn, Garland Thomas, John McFarlane, William VanOrmer and Gary List.

Plans are being made, Mr. Hardesty said, for a charter ceremony and formal installation of the troop during January.

The organization of the troop was completed last week by the Nemaquin District Organization and Extension Committee, under the direction of Carl Wagner, chairman.

Hagerstown Shriners Plan Yule Party

A large delegation from the Cumberland area is planning to attend the annual Christmas dinner and dance planned by the Hagerstown Shrine Club Saturday.

Harry M. Hartman, potentate of Ali Ghan Temple, A.A.O.N. M.S., said the celebration will open with dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple in Hagerstown.

Dancing, with music by The Esquires, will follow.

Building Burned In South End

South Cumberland Fire Company yesterday morning extinguished a blaze in the gymnasium of the old Taylor Tin Plate Mill on Bowen Street.

Firemen said they fought the blaze for almost an hour and considerable damage was caused to the front part of the vacant building.

Central Fire Company were called to the rear of 144 Polk Street yesterday evening to put out a fire which started in some vines on a fence.

Police Raid Four Clubs 'n Piedmont

Charged With Illegal Possession Of Liquor

Four organizations were raided early last night in Piedmont, W. Va., and were charged with the illegal possession of liquor.

The clubs included Piedmont Council 685, Knights of Columbus; Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion; Piedmont Lodge 1120, Loyal Order of Moose, and the Sons of Italy.

A representative of each of the organizations last night posted $500 before Miss Madalyn Bazzle, justice of the peace in Keyser.

A hearing on the illegal possession of liquor charges against the organizations has been set by Miss Bazzle for Monday, December 30, in Keyser.

Six members of the West Virginia State Police and the sheriff at Keyser raided the club rooms of the four organizations simultaneously and arrested the bartenders who were on duty.

Taking part in the raid were Sgt. W. F. Bowley, Cpl. C. G. Hamrick and Troopers C. C. Oliver, R. V. Noschel, J. C. Ramsburg and Jack Baker of the State Police and Sheriff W. O. Mott.

West Virginia law prohibits the sale of liquor except at the state stores.

Two of the Mineral County organizations which were raided last night by the State Police were hit by officers last March.

The American Legion and Moose lodge were assessed heavy fines at hearings last April before Miss Bazzle in Keyser.

SS Disability Claimants Can Save Benefits

Disabled workers who were eligible in July 1957 for Social Security disability insurance benefits and who fail to apply before the end of December will lose up to $651, James E. Robertson, district manager of the Cumberland Social Security office, said today.

Mr. Robertson pointed out that under the law eligible persons who make application for disability benefits before the end of December can be paid benefits back as far as July, when such benefits first became available.

For those who file after December, no back benefits can be paid. The law provides that in such cases payments can begin no earlier than the month in which the application is filed.

Disability payments range from $30 to $108.50 a month, depending on the worker's average monthly earnings under Social Security.

Social Security disability insurance benefits are payable to persons between 50 and 65 years of age who have worked under social security in the past but are now so severely disabled that they cannot do any substantial gainful work.

To qualify for these benefits, a disabled worker must have Social Security credit for at least five out of the 10 years before he became disabled, including at least a year and a half out of the three years just before his disability began.

Applications for benefits can be made at any Social Security office. If a disabled person is unable to go to the office he may write or telephone for information or someone else may call for him, Mr. Robertson said.

Lonaconing Youth Remains 'Critical'

Lloyd Wayne Smith, 17, of Lonaconing, remained in "critical" condition last night at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va.

The youth has been unconscious since he was admitted to the hospital December 8 following an automobile accident near McCoolle in which he sustained head injuries.

The Rec Club of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company will hold a holiday dance Saturday from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The Townsmen will provide the music.

Santa Visits With PPG Children

Santa Claus was host to 130 children Saturday at the Cumberland Eagles home at a party sponsored by the Rec Club of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. During the two-hour party the children were treated to several cartoons, refreshments and a gift from Santa. Each child also had his picture taken with Santa Claus. Several members of the club who assisted with the party Saturday are standing in the background. Left to right they are Ralph Gehauf, Alexa (doni) and Ann Gibbens. The club plans to make the event an annual affair.
